Chinese Suggest Talks On Peace; Explode A-Bomb

TOKYO (AP) — Communist China exploded its first atom bomb Friday, and talked of peace. It said it wants all nations to shun such weapons, but will develop its own stockpile.

The explosion of an atomic bomb in the vast tundra land of western China, coupled with and following the ouster of Nikita S. Khrushchev as Soviet premier raised Mao Tze-tung's stature in the Communist world and in the areas of Communist pressure, notably Africa.

In a broadcast by New China News Agency, Peking declared: "China exploded an atom bomb at 1500 hours — 2 a.m. EST — on Oct. 16, 1964, and thereby conducted successfully its first nuclear test.

MAJOR GAIN

"This is a major achievement of the Chinese people in their struggle to increase their national defense capability and oppose the U.S. imperialist policy of nuclear tests and develop nuclear weapons."

The United States confirmed that Red China had exploded a "low-yield" nuclear test. President Johnson cautioned, "Its military significance should not be overestimated." He said many years and much difficulty will be required before the Chinese obtain a stockpile of nuclear weapons and a delivery capability.

Peking's announcement gave no indication whether the test blast was underground, at the surface, or in the atmosphere. An unconfirmed report said a steel test tower was used.

American nuclear scientists said the blast likely was primitive, about the force of the first U.S. atomic explosion at Alamagordo, N.M., in July, 1945. That explosion was rated at 19 kilotons, or a force equal to 19,000 tons of TNT. Today's U.S. and Soviet weapons range up to millions of tons of force.

"The Chinese government hereby formally proposes to the governments of the world that a summit conference of all the countries of the world be convened to discuss the question of the complete prohibition and thorough destruction of nuclear weapons, and that as a first step, the summit conference should reach an agreement to the effect that the nuclear powers and those countries which will soon become nuclear powers undertake not to use nuclear weapons, neither to use them against non-nuclear countries and nuclear-free zones, nor against each other," the announcement said.

Labor Faces Shaky Days; Margin Thin

LONDON (AP) — Labor Party leader Harold Wilson became Britain's prime minister Friday by virtue of a Laborite election victory so narrow as to jeopardize his chances for a stable administration. At 48, he is Britain's youngest prime minister of the 20th century.

Wilson's side scraped home with a slim majority of seats in the House of Commons in a photo finish that ended 13 years of Conservative rule. His edge over the combined opposition in the 630-seat House when all returns are in today apparently will be no more than four.

APPOINTS WILSON

Queen Elizabeth II accepted the resignation of Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home, 61, a former nobleman who headed the Conservatives, and appointed Wilson to form a new Cabinet from the ranks of the Laborites.

Doubts immediately developed whether Wilson, with his extremely thin edge, could long keep control of the newly elected House in this time of international and domestic ferment.

Wilson quickly began filling places in his Cabinet. For the key post of foreign secretary, he named Patrick Gordon Walker, a party stalwart who failed to win election to Commons. Walker, 57, a former history tutor at Oxford, is expected to run again in a special election in a safe Labor district from which an obliging incumbent, nearly elected, would be asked to resign.

As expected, Wilson named the deputy party leader, George Brown, 50, once Wilson's rival for power, as first secretary of state and minister for economic affairs. It is the second-ranking Cabinet post and he will be acting prime minister when Wilson is away.

James Callaghan, 50, another rival to succeed the late Labor party leader Hugh Gaitskell last year, became chancellor of the exchequer (treasury). Denis Healey, 47, an advocate of an East-West disengagement in Europe, became defense minister.

STEPPED-UP WARFARE

Vietnamese, Cong In Four Maulings

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Four major engagement forces mauling the foe in two battles and suffering reversals in two, pointed to a stepped-up pace in Viet Nam's jungle and rice paddy warfare. Up to nightfall a total of 84 Viet Cong and 37 government dead had been reported.

Fighting was reported still raging in the southern delta region, where Vietnamese airborne units caught a major Viet Cong force, killing at least 44 of the guerrillas, American sources reported.

These sources said Vietnamese soldiers brought in by helicopter jumped the Communist force near Bac Lieu, 120 miles southwest of Saigon. When the size of the guerrilla force was realized, reinforcements were rushed into the area.

Radio reports from the scene said three government soldiers were wounded.

The Vietnamese Defense Ministry had reported suffering reversals in two of three engagements Thursday.

Two Red battlions attacked an army outfit in Hau Nghia Province about 40 miles northwest of Saigon, and Viet Cong units penetrated a village near Phuoc Vinh, in Phuoc Thanh Province.

Premier Nguyen Khanh, faced with increasing aggressiveness by the Communist Viet Cong and political woes in Saigon, turned his attention to other troubles and flew north for a meeting with disgruntled Montagnard tribesmen.

Khanh met with tribal leaders in Pleiku, 240 miles north of Saigon, to discuss their demands for some measure of autonomy. Their demands led to the vest-pocket revolt last month. Informed sources felt a new revolt could break out if the Montagnards felt their negotiations with Khanh fruitless.

There are about 9,000 mountain men who were trained and armed by the U.S. military for action against the Viet Cong.

AMC, Union Hope Tie-Up Ends Shortly

27,000 Walk Out Despite Accord On Sharing Plan

DETROIT (AP) — Spokesmen for the strike bound, profit sharing American Motors Corp. and the United Auto Workers Union expressed joint hope Friday the UAW's walkout could be ended in a relatively short time.

The nation's auto industry was hit by a second major strike when some 27,000 UAW members were called out shortly after midnight Thursday, despite agreement to retain a unique profit-sharing provision in a new AMC labor contract.

GM STILL IDLE

Meanwhile, production lines at General Motors Corp. remained shut as a nationwide strike against the No. 1 automaker entered its third week.

Some 300,000 GM workers have been idled in the United States and Canada.

Although a national agreement has been reached at GM, local issues must be resolved before the workers return to assembly lines.

Latest reports showed that 62 of the 130 local GM bargaining units have settled their problems. At Ford, which also has reached a new national pact and which has not been struck, 61 of 90 bargaining units have reached at-the-plant working agreements which supplement the national contract.

Douglas Fraser, in charge of the UAW's negotiating team at American Motors, said two issues — involving so-called wage inequities and a seniority transfer clause — were the major stumbling blocks remaining on the national level. In addition, he said, local issues also must be settled before the walkout is ended.

Still under discussion was the question of wage scales for some 3,000 Kelvinator Appliance Division employes at Grand Rapids, Mich.

Edward L. Cushman, AMC vice president, said the company has offered to give Kelvinator workers wages similar to those granted by other companies in the appliance industry.

But the union said it wanted to encompass earlier retirement and other provisions in its new contracts with the automotive Big Three — GM, Ford and trouble-free Chrysler.

Fraser and Cushman lifted a news blackout briefly to say that both were hopeful of securing an agreement as soon as possible.

Nuclear Test Set For Today

BAXTERVILLE, Miss. (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission plans to detonate a nuclear device today in the Tatum Salt Dome here.

The purpose of the detonation —which has met with repeated postponements—is to test underground explosion listening devices throughout the nation.

The blast, unless postponed again by adverse weather conditions, was set for 10 a.m., CST.

The AEC said Friday, it was unable to detect the Communist China atomic detonation.

Johnson Replies To Reassurance; Intimates Summit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new rulers of the Soviet Union made a quick diplomatic bid Friday for friendly relations with the United States. President Johnson responded cordially, and cautiously opened the way for an eventual East-West summit meeting.

Acting on instructions from Moscow, Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin called at the White House late Friday morning and told the President that the Soviet foreign policy of "strengthening peace, peaceful coexistence among countries with different social systems, and further relaxation of tensions" will stand unchanged despite the departure of Premier Khrushchev.

WELCOME STAND

Johnson "welcomed this assurance," the President himself later announced in a statement, and said the Soviet government "could rely on the determination of the United States" to serve the cause of peace and international understanding."

Officials subsequently disclosed that Johnson also made clear to Dobrynin what he has said publicly on various occasions: that he is willing to go anywhere at any time and undertake any action which will advance the cause of world peace.

That is the kind of language he has used when talking about the possibility of an East-West summit conference. It involves no commitments but is a way of opening the door for future action if events justify such a course.

The Dobrynin-Johnson meeting was symbolic. It served as a first answer to the question of what kind of relations do Leonid I. Brezhnev and Alexei N. Kosygin, who have succeeded Khrushchev, want with the United States. Dobrynin and Johnson played their roles for maximum emphasis on the symbolism of U.S.-Soviet cooperation.

Officials said privately that they don't quite know what this means for the future but for the present it is encouraging, in the light of Johnson's policy of seeking accommodations with the Soviet Union by international agreement.

In vivid contrast to the picture of Dobrynin and Johnson shaking hands at the executive office entrance were headlines telling of Red China's explosion of a nuclear test bomb. The U.S. government confirmed the blast somewhere in western China and said it was of "low yield."

News of the Red Chinese exploit, making the vast Red giant of Asia a fledgling member of the nuclear power club, reached the White House while Johnson was preparing for his Dobrynin meeting and a conference with Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and other advisers.

Pravda Aims Official Guns At Disgraced Khrushchev

Accusations Ring Similar To Old Days

MOSCOW (AP) — Pravda, Nikita S. Khrushchev's former mouthpiece, threw the book at him today.

The organ of the Communist party accused its ousted chief of "harebrained scheming, immature conclusions and hasty decisions and actions, individualistic bragging and phrasemongering, commandism and unwillingness to take into account the achievements of science and practical experience."

The front-page editorial nowhere mentioned Khrushchev by name but there was no doubt about who was meant.

OLD REFRAIN

It said the Communist party opposed all these things and demanded "collective leadership" — exactly what Khrushchev insisted upon when he ruled the Soviet Union first in partnership with Georgi M. Malenkov and later with Nikolai N. Bulganin.

Both those men fell victim to Khrushchev's relentless drive for power.

The editorial, first expression of party opinion since Khrushchev's downfall, said it was "irreconcilably and consistently opposing and continues to oppose the ideology and practice of the personality cult."

This was equivalent of accusing Khrushchev of dictatorship.

Informed sources said Friday that Khrushchev was ousted for nepotism — giving jobs to relatives — and bad tactics in the bitter dispute with Red China.

His Kremlin collapse almost coincided with Red China's explosion of a nuclear device, which observers believed the leaders here knew was coming almost to the minute.

Pravda, again without mentioning Khrushchev by name, said the Soviet Union could not "tolerate armchair methods, personal decisions and disregard for the practical experience of the masses."

The reference to the masses was a clear indication that the party's grass-roots soundings showed discontent with such things as the agricultural failures that forced Khrushchev to buy wheat from Canada and the United States.

The editorial said the new regime would carry out Khrushchev's policies of peaceful coexistence and support for the new nations of Africa and Asia. It also said the new men would go ahead with his plans for a Red summit showdown with Red China, but this was met with a certain amount of skepticism.

The charges against Khrushchev were brought up at a meeting of the Communist party Central Committee which began Monday.

Khrushchev fought the charges, brought in a secret meeting of the Communist party Central Committee, but lost, the informants said. He is still reported to be in Moscow.

Six of his personal underlings were reported to have been fired or transferred. One of them was his son-in-law, Alexei Adzhubei, editor of the government paper Izvestia.

The new account of what happened disputes the official explanation that Khrushchev had asked to be relieved of his jobs because of his age, 70, and deteriorating health.

Leonid I. Brezhnev succeeded Khrushchev as first secretary of the Communist party, the key position in a Communist country, and Alexei N. Kosygin became premier.

Group Named To Consider Hoffa Charge

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House Judiciary subcommittee was named Friday to investigate the Justice Department under what Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., has called "the Hoffa resolution."

Celler told newsmen in announcing the makeup of the investigating group that the inquiry is not likely to get started before January, because of the Nov. 3 congressional elections and the holiday season that follows.

EXCLUDES CASES

Asked if he thought the investigation should include the Justice Department's handling of the case against Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa, Celler replied: "My personal opinion is to keep it away from pending cases."

Hoffa is appealing his conviction on charges of attempted jury tampering. Sidney Zagri, chief lobbyist for the union, has tried for months to persuade congressmen that the Justice Department used unfair and unconstitutional methods in prosecuting Hoffa.

When the Judiciary Committee voted 20-13 on Sept. 22 to authorize the investigation, Celler said, "Nobody asked for it except those involved with the Teamsters Union."

At Friday's news conference, Rep. William M. McCulloch of Ohio, senior Republican on the committee, agreed with Celler that the investigation should be objective and said it "will not become anywhere near a witch hunt."

Celler said it will be up to the subcommittee to determine whether it will look into recommendations of the Warren Commission and activities of the Federal Bureau of Investigation and U.S. marshals involved in civil rights cases. He said all these matters "might well come under our study."

In addition to Celler and McCulloch the subcommittee is composed of Reps. Jack B. Brooks, D-Tex., Robert T. Ashmore, D-S.C., Jacob H. Gilbert, D-N.Y., James C. Corman, D-Calif., George F. Senner, D-Ariz., Arch A. Moore, R-W.Va., Garner E. Shriver, R-Kan., and James E. Bromwell, R-Iowa.

HIGHWAY OFFICIAL SAYS

City's Overpass Prospects Good

Monroe's chances of getting the Department of Highways to construct an overpass at DeSiard Street appear good, said James W. Moore, Fifth District highway board member, Friday.

When asked about the city's request, Moore replied, "The best answer I can give is this. Gov. McKeithen said, 'Jimmy, that's something we need, isn't it?' I said, 'It sure is' and he said, 'We got to find the money for Mayor Howard.' "

Moore said the highway department was conducting surveys on the city's request for a $3½-million overpass over DeSiard that would connect 7th with N. 6th Street.

But Moore added, "I imagine it'll be about two years before we get around to that."

GIVES REPORT

In a report to the Monroe Optimist Club on highway construction in the Twin Cities, Moore explained that the department's chief problem was revenue.

But he said Gov. John J. McKeithen was "giving the highway department good government."

"We're not drawing $30,000 a year," Moore said, referring to per diem that board members can draw. "Two of us are not drawing per diem and expenses at all."

He explained that in an effort to cut back on expenditures the department was not hiring additional personnel, saying, "We're hiring people only where there is a vacancy."

In a question and answer session, Moore said the board would meet Wednesday at Baton Rouge to discuss a proposed north - south federal highway from Kansas City to Baton Rouge.

"Otto Passman (Rep. Passman) wants it for Monroe and Joe Waggonner (Rep. Waggonner) wants it for Shreveport," Moore said. "We've got a good chance to get it."

With $15-million in highway construction underway in the Twin Cities, Moore said he thought the U.S. 165 by-pass would have more effect on Monroe than the I-20.

"Already there are several business firms buying property on the by-pass route to locate there," he explained. "It's going to have the most affect on the traffic pattern of Monroe."

In summary, Moore said the I-20 would be completed sooner than the I-10, which is being constructed across South Louisiana.

Indian Leader Decries Bomb

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — India's Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri said Friday that Red China's atom bomb development is "a danger to the maintenance of peace."

30-SECOND INTERVAL

Tremor, Atom Blast Only Instant Apart

WASHINGTON (AP) — By a bizarre coincidence, a fairly large earthquake occurred in the Kurile Islands 1,000 miles northeast of Japan at virtually the same time as the Red Chinese nuclear explosion.

The timing was so close that government seismologists here thought at first that the earthshocks which had been recorded —but not yet pinned down as to source—might have been due to the nuclear blast.

Additional reports later convinced them, however, that the shocks actually came from an earthquake in the Kurile Islands at least 2,000 miles from the place where the Red Chinese set off their first nuclear device.

Seismologists of the U.S. Coast and Geodetic Survey—which coordinates a nearly worldwide network of earthquake detection stations—fixed the time of the earthquake at 1:59:30 a.m. EST, only 30 seconds ahead of the announced time of the Chinese test explosion.

The initial idea that the blast was responsible developed after stations at Blacksburg, Va. and Georgetown University here reported evidence of earthshocks at about 2:12 a.m. EST.

Allowing for time it takes for earthshock waves to travel from Asia to the United States, this would be just about coincident with the announced time of the Red China nuclear blast.

Then came additional reports from a station near Fairbanks, Alaska, and another in Upsala, Sweden, however, and computations quickly ruled out China as the location of the earthshocks. They were definitely pinned down as having come from a natural earthquake, whose epicenter was located in the Kurile Islands.

The Rev. Joseph Lynch, seismologist at Fordham University in New York, had been convinced from the start that an earthquake was responsible, although he conceded the bomb blast may also have been recorded.

Who is the new U. S. Attorney General?

Nicholas Katzenbach, who served as a deputy attorney general under Robert F. Kennedy, was elevated to the top spot in the Justice Department after Kennedy resigned to run for the U. S. Senate in New York. Katzenbach was named acting attorney general — not actually attorney general. It is generally felt President Johnson will name a man of his own choosing if he is elected to his own term as President. Katzenbach will be best remembered as the federal agent who was involved in the integration of the University of Alabama and who was defied by Gov. George Wallace's "stand in the school house door" attitude.

A recent and careful check by the Monroe police department, showed that no material considered indecent by law was being sold on open bookstands. Materials considered by some people are not necessarily considered indecent by others; others being the courts that rule on such matters, both printed and pictorial. Material considered indecent, or pornographic as defined by law, is circulated throughout the world and generally sells for comparatively high prices, but such articles are found on public stands only in extremely rare instances.

Daphne (Berries are poisonous and just a few can be fatal to a child); Lily of the Valley (Leaves and flowers are poisonous); Larkspur (plants and seeds are poisonous); English Ivy (all poisonous); Rhubarb leaves (leaf blades are potentially fatal in large amount and are poisonous raw or cooked); Castor Beans (poisonous; a single seed can be fatal); Opium Poppy (milky juice of poppies is poisonous); Oleander (leaves and branches are extremely poisonous); Poke-berry Bush (roots and seeds of the berries are poisonous); green potatoes (sufficiently toxic to make one sick); Yellow Jessamine (all poisonous, berries can be fatal); Jimson Weed (all parts poisonous); Toadstools (poisonous); Mushrooms (certain types are poisonous); Horse Chestnut (nut is poisonous); Hemlock (poisonous); Water Hemlock (all parts potentially fatal).

These plants listed in the question were not described as poisonous in publications from which the above was obtained:

Meadow Saffron, Matrimony Ivy, Castor Bean stalks and leaves, Thor Apple or Thorn Apple, Milkweed sprouts, root of Cowbane, Peach tree leaves or Snow on the Mountain.

United Givers Drive At Half-Way Mark

United Givers Fund has reached the half-way mark in the 1964-65 fund campaign, it was announced Friday at the organization's third report meeting. To date, UGF workers have turned in $135,980, or 50.3 per cent of the total goal.

The report session also saw the first major division of the drive hit 100 per cent of its quota, when workers under Chairman Hugh Balfour turned in an even $20,000 to put the West Monroe Advance Gifts Division over the top. Thus, Balfour became the first "Oscar" winner of the campaign. The mementos are presented to campaign volunteers who have reached their quotas.

Campaign Chairman Ralph Caldwell, who presided at the meeting, said he was "pleased to report the campaign half-way toward its goal. But, he added, "I'm concerned that we are not further along at this point. Only two weeks remain in our scheduled one-month effort, and we still have 50 per cent to go."

The chairman once again urged all workers to make their calls promptly "so that we may close the gap. We are running about five per cent ahead of last year, but with a larger goal this year, we need an increase of eight per cent if we are to be successful."

Caldwell also expressed gratitude to the "many firms and their employees who have given their Fair Share, and to the many groups which are 100 per cent in giving. We are proud of these organizations, without which the campaign could not be successful.

He also called for firm managers to set up meetings with their employees and allow speakers from the volunteer speakers bureau to show the UGF film and to talk to the employees about this year's campaign.

"We have many examples of employee groups which, having seen the film about UGF, responded with fair share support, whereas last year their giving was zero. I believe that Ouachita Parish is a generous area, and once people see the needs for themselves, they will respond to meet these needs."

Caldwell praised the work of the 13 UGF agencies and urged potential contributors to "see for themselves what the agencies are doing with their gifts. Their doors are open to everyone. A visit to any of these local agencies will convince people of the justified needs the agencies have," Caldwell said.

The chairman also pointed out that the budgets of the agencies have been screened thoroughly by volunteer citizens, "not once, but several times," he said, "to verify that their requests are justified and the money is going where it is needed most."

The fourth report meeting will be held at the Admiral Benbow Inn. Like all report sessions, this will also be a "dutch-treat" luncheon.

BY AIR FORCE

Defense Department Says Aide Cleared For Secrets

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department said Friday night the Air Force granted Walter W. Jenkins a top-secret clearance in June 1956 following an investigation of his background.

The Pentagon made public a summary of Jenkins' military record in response to questions about the Air Force Reserve colonel who has resigned as President Johnson's aide following disclosure that he had been arrested twice on morals charges.

A Pentagon spokesman declined to say whether Jenkins still has top-secret clearance. The spokesman noted that Johnson has asked the FBI to investigate.

The Pentagon listed Jenkins as attached to the 9999th Air Reserve Squadron, which is commanded by Sen. Barry Goldwater. Goldwater, the Republican presidential candidate, is a major general in the Air Force Reserve.

Goldwater said Thursday night in Houston, Tex., that Jenkins had been cleared to see classified security material when he joined the Air Force Reserve squadron which the senator commands. Goldwater also said he never had occasion to give an efficiency rating to Jenkins.

The summary said that Jenkins served as an Army enlisted man from Sept. 26, 1941 to July 14, 1942.

He was an officer in the Army from July 15, 1942 to Dec. 29, 1945, serving in the Tunisian, Sicilian and Rome-Arno campaigns, and reaching the rank of captain. The report said his principal duties were as a platoon leader of a quartermaster truck company and as an adjutant.

Placid Slated To Drill Well In Winn Parish

WINNFIELD (Special) — Placid Oil Co. has announced plans to drill a 9,500 - foot exploratory oil well in Winn Parish, the first such test since the discovery of the Black Lake field in Natchitoches Parish earlier this year.

According to production superintendent Robert Gray, the new venture will be located in section 20, Township 13, range two west, between Gaar's Mill and Dodson on a lease from Tremont Lumber Co. and is 20 miles east of the Black Lake field.

Clearing of the site and building of the roads are scheduled to begin next week, Gray said.

The well is expected to draw interest of major petroleum producers as the 9,500 foot hole will give a look at the Wilcox, chalks series, Tokyo, Tuscaloosa, Pettit Line, Sligo and Hoston formations.

The upper Wilcox has been producing oil in the location vicinity for several years.

Kennedy's Handicaps

Former Attorney General Robert Kennedy, who is running for the United States Senate in New York against Republican Senator Kenneth B. Keating of Rochester, is confronted with almost as many political handicaps as there are physical handicaps in a school for the blind. He may win but most of the nation's political big-shots, in both the Democratic and the Republican parties hope he won't. This also goes for a lot of other people throughout the United States.

Among Kennedy's handicaps are the following:

1. He is running as coattail candidate, his hope for election depending on the left-over popularity of his late brother, John F. Kennedy, whose term as President was cut short by assassination. Robert Kennedy himself has never been popular with top officials because of his sneering and superior manner.

2. Although President Lyndon B. Johnson and New York Mayor Robert Wagner have given their verbal support to Kennedy, as one analyst says, "they would like to see him elected in just about the same way a pigeon would like to stand in the way of a pouncing puma." Johnson, as headman of the nation, and Wagner, as "top dog" of the Democratic party in New York City, want no one challenging their authority. This they know Kennedy would do with the utmost abruptness and rudeness if he were elected Senator. He chose to run for the Senate post as a stepping stone toward the Presidency and if he were to win, he would try for the Democratic Presidential nomination in 1968 and in 1972. He would also try to take over politics in New York. These are things Johnson and Wagner know and find hard to swallow.

3. Because of the undercover opposition of Johnson and Wagner, Kennedy reportedly has not been able to get his hands on the money he expected to receive from the Democratic party in New York.

4. Kennedy is running in New York as a "foreigner." When election day arrives on November 3 he will not have been an alleged resident of the state of New York long enough to cast a ballot for himself or anyone else. He was bred, born and reared in Massachusetts, that is his home state and, until he resigned as attorney general a few weeks ago, he had always lived there except during the time he has been in Washington. Clearly, the framers of the Constitution of the United States intended that a member of Congress must be elected in a state in which he had a firmly established residency. Since it specifies, however, only that a candidate must be a "resident" and does not define the length of time the candidate must have lived in the state, Kennedy is defying tradition and the accepted meaning of the law to run in a state not already dominated by the Kennedy clan.

5. The former attorney general has long been a defender and friend of the notorious Congressional junketer, Representative Adam Clayton Powell, Harlem's absentee Negro Congressman, who spends most of his time in Puerto Rico, with his Puerto Rican wife, and who has attracted considerable notice as a habitue of Paris night spots, where he has been accompanied by women assistants on his payroll. Kennedy's love for Powell has done him no good with the white voters.

6. Kennedy's overly-obvious courting of the Negro votes in Harlem and in other areas of New York also is expected to bring a telling white backlash.

7. Both of New York's Senators are Republicans and the governor of the state, Nelson A. Rockefeller, is also a Republican. Rockefeller, who has been wishy-washy in supporting some Republican candidates, might secretly help Kennedy if he thought Johnson wanted him, since Johnson and Rockefeller did some pussyfooting together in trying to prevent Barry Goldwater from obtaining the Democratic nomination for President, but, inasmuch as Johnson doesn't want Kennedy to win, Rockefeller probably doesn't either.

8. Johnson is a friend and admirer of Senator Keating, thus having even more reason to support the Republican candidate secretly.

9. If Johnson and Wagner don't "pass the word" down through New York's ward bosses, support for Kennedy will largely "go glimmering."

10. Joseph Kennedy, father of Robert, the late President John F. Kennedy and Senator Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts and of the wives of Movie Actor Peter Lawford, Peace Corps Director Sargent Shriver and Stephen Smith, functioning head of the Democratic National Committee under the Kennedy regime, is not in the robust health he was enjoying when John F. Kennedy ran for President. He has had to turn the operation of his business over to other members of the family. This might mean that Robert would have home difficulty in getting his hands on the Kennedy millions for the purpose of financing his campaign, although each member of the Kennedy family is a millionaire several times over in his own right. Kennedy probably won't run short of cash but he may not be able to spend it as liberally as he would if his father were teeming with ambition for his family, as he formerly was, and as if he were getting the wholehearted support of New York's Democratic State Central Committee.

One Washington news analyst, who has been covering the political scene and all national conventions for more than 50 years, says Johnson will carry New York but that the case for Robert Kennedy is more doubtful.

If anyone were to lay odds on Kennedy to win, he would be taking less than a good gambler's chances.

Newspaperboy Day

The Monroe Morning World and the nearly 11,000 daily and weekly newspapers from coast to coast join today in saluting the American newspaperboy for his enterprise, energy and ambition.

Newspaperboys make up the final link between modern newspapers and their multi-million reader audience.

Each year in National Newspaper Week, one day is set aside as Newspaperboy Day. This year it is estimated that the international tribute in the United States and Canada will honor 800,000 little merchants who are on their way to becoming young businessmen.

Each newspaperboy completely operates his own business. He provides service to his customers, collects payment for the product he delivers and reimburses his supplier for the product he sells.

Some one has aptly said that a boy is the only material out of which to make a man. That is indeed a statement of fact. And, from this material will come our next generation of leaders.

The training received as a youngster makes a newspaperboy a part of the nation's press corps. Through this activity, he learns to be courteous, ambitious, dependable. He also learns the rudiments of good business and practices of perseverance, honesty, punctuality and respect for others—all qualities of leadership.

These boys are engaged in wholesome activity and are experiencing the value of earning and saving for future use. In this way, they are developing an appreciation of private initiative, and a sense of responsibility to themselves, their newspapers, their parents and their communities.

The Morning World wishes to join with civic leaders and businessmen everywhere in saluting the newspaperboy, and particularly our own fine group.

Personal Johnson Election

Chief Executive Thinks Mainly Of Self

IT IS NO LONGER telling tales out of school to report that President Lyndon Johnson takes a very personal view of the coming election. Most candidates, of course, see the future of mankind in the outcome of their own return to office. But Mr. Johnson has entered into the present contest with an intensity that has frightened some of his closet associates.

It is not political battle that he sees ahead, but war to the death. He sees as its result the total extermination of Senator Barry Goldwater and the conservatives of America. It has, to put it in colloquial terms, become a grudge fight. The President foresees no possibility of defeat — therefore he sees no need to concede the possibility of granting quarter to the vanquished.

Mr. Johnson's intimates — and this is not journalistic license — have watched with concern his growing obsession with polls and his frenetic response to his campaign chores. They are equally concerned with his prediction that the vote for him on November 3 will be bigger than the Franklin Roosevelt landslide of 1936.

At this point in the festivities, the President refuses to concede anything to Senator Goldwater and the Republicans. He wants to pick up all the marginal seats in the House and Senate now held by the Republicans — and this desire is expressed with a passion which convinces Democratic campaign strategists that this is a must on his list.

IT IS NO LONGER a question of political leverage in the Congress — a handle to enact his "program" without the help of Republicans and Southern Democrats. Mr. Johnson is out to prove that he is the greatest vote - getter in American history, that he is invincible at the polls. Having played second fiddle to John F. Kennedy and smarted under the real or imaginary slights of Bobby Kennedy, Lyndon Johnson feels he must be tree-top tall in November.

His emotional approach, disconcerting to those who have always considered him to be ice-water cool about politics, can be discerned in the campaigning style he has developed. At the present rate of attrition on his throat, LBJ will have no voice long before Election Day. He cannot simply talk to an audience; he must harangue it at top lung-power. He can no longer punctuate a point with a gesture; he must flail about as if urging the troops to battle.

Perhaps, as the wear and tear begins to have its effect, President Johnson will slow down. The frenzy will subside. And he may decide that it is enough to win the White House in his own name without demolishing Senator Goldwater and obliterating the opposition. Certainly, if he continues at the present pace he can but do lasting physical harm to himself.

One of the President's top advisers has warned him that he can take no more than 36 states. The goal of 48 is preposterous to any practical politician. The President has always been told, though with infinite tact, that if he continues to compaign like a freshman Congressman — no set speeches, no organized presentation, and all ad lib flourish — he can walk into the buzzsaw of his own rhetoric.

SURVEYS HAVE ALSO shown that though Mr. Johnson's slam - bang oratory sets a crowd to cheering, it leaves a dubious residue. He did much better when he presented himself as the President of all the people. Harry S. Truman's "give 'em hell" approach was dry and piercing, in the American manner. LBJ's brand of the same has too much of a soapbox flavor.

If this seems unkind to point out, it can be said that it would be unkinder to remain silent. The polls have begun to show a decline in Mr. Johnson's popularity. If the trend continues, even the polls will show what many non-aligned political observers have said all along — that this is a far tighter contest than the figures show. The President has indicated he would not be satisfied with a [illegible] victory, but the pres[illegible] in his drawing power could indicate that, at best, this is all he can expect.

None of this has any connection with side-, front-, or backlash. The trend now apparent is directly attributable to voter exposure to the President. Democrats would like LBJ to call a halt. Republicans are divided, but by and large they would prefer to see him continue the mixture as before. The question both parties ask is: Can the effect of the new Lyndon manner be sufficient to change the outcome?

DR. PETER J. STEINCROHN

Blood Pressure Is Good If Low

DEAR DR. STEINCROHN: I wonder if you would help me with a health problem? My son is a very busy man just past 40. His blood pressure is 100 over 80. He is five feet 10 and weighs about 160. I wish you could tell me how we could bring his blood pressure up to normal. I don't know what normal is, but I suppose it's at least 130. — Mrs. M.

Comment: I wish I could turn off, like a valve, all the hot air still around concerning low blood pressure. Letters like yours convince me that there's no such thing as useless repetition in a medical column. Somewhere, there is sure to be someone who has missed some important information which has appeared many times in the past.

FOR INSTANCE, consider your son's low blood pressure. As it happens, it isn't low. It's normal for a man of 40. He should be thankful for it; and not go shopping around for a doctor who might be old-fashioned enough to believe that he needs "shots" to bring it up to normal. Leave well enough alone. Nature resents tampering with the normal.

Even if it were in the 90s or low 100s, I'd say don't fool with it. Statistics show that people who actually have low blood pressure (not due to organic disease) live longer than those of us whose pressure is so-called normal. They are less likely to have strokes, coronary disease and chronic kidney ailments.

To repeat: If any readers of this column are taking medicine or injections to "bring up your low blood pressure," I can't say don't, without having all the facts. At least you can do this: ask for a consultation to determine if you really need the treatments you are getting for low blood pressure.

DOCTORS IN SPOTLIGHT

Scene: On a plane, a bus, a train, a park bench — anywhere two or more people talk about doctors. Oh, we mustn't forget the bridge table, where people's lives are bid up and down with abandon: mostly little or grand slams.

Time: Any time since the age of Hippocrates.

Characters: Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Jones, typical housewives, gentle mothers of children and mistresses of fine homes.

Mrs. Smith: I wouldn't let him treat my dog!

Mrs. Jones: I've used him for years and think he's the best.

Mrs. Smith: The best? How can you say that? Why last week we tried to have him call at about 11 o'clock at night and he said he couldn't come.

Mrs. Jones: But he said he'd send someone, didn't he?

Mrs. Smith: What good's a doctor if you can't get him any hour of the 24? Sickness comes at any time. Didn't he swear when he became a doctor, never to let his patients down?

MRS. JONES: YES, I know. But Maggie, have a heart. The guy's only a human being. Not a machine made of steel and copper wiring. How long do you think he'd last if he worked around the clock? There aren't enough doctors to go around. That keeps him busy from early morning to late in the day. How could he do a good job in the office and at the hospital if he were up night after night?

Mrs. Smith: But he has time for golf and vacations.

Mrs. Jones: For pity's sake, Maggie. You do hate doctors, don't you? I know. I'll bet you just got a whopper of a bill that makes you so mad.

"But a certain Samaritan, as he journeyed, came where he was; and when he saw him, he had compassion on him." Luke 10:33

The world could stand a lot more good samaritans doing practical Christian works, and fewer sanctimonious church members wrapped up in their own pet projects.

VICTOR RIESEL

Hidden Vote Big In This Election

WASHINGTON, D.C. — While trekking across 12,000 miles of our land, this reporter observed that the presidential campaign is the least publicly discussed national election since the invention of the ballot.

It isn't lethargy. It's a mysterious reluctance to open up. Whether they are folks in Brownsville, Texas—the southernmost point in the U.S.—or Bellingham, Washington — the northernmost point — or in Chicago or New York — the most congested points — none but the partisans really reveal how they'll vote or who they believe will carry their states.

Evidently, the independent bloc — the hidden vote — is bigger than is generally realized. It can still swing either way.

That's why labor's political strategists are running more scared than Lyndon Johnson. Their problem cuts deep because their task is far more than the election of the President.

THIS PROBLEM, in view of the massive campaign they've launched against Barry Goldwater, is to bring out a huge and obvious labor vote. Yet, they are harassed by reports of defections espcially in the industrial areas.

No one can predict now whether big blocs of the rank and file will go to the Republican nominee because of the still strong backlash or whether they will simply stay at home. If the labor leaders can't get out, a record vote they will have lost prestige and power regardless of who wins on Nov. 3.

Thus, behind the scenes, the basic fight for the union chiefs is a duel between themselves and the Republicans' "Big City Program" directed by Sherman Unger, a Cincinnati lawyer.

To pick a key district at random I took a hard look at Chicago. There the G.O.P Big City activists have a network of 600 five-man teams. By Election Day the "Program" will have another 600 units operating at the polls, working with another network of teams which in turn will have men and women in every precinct. This is the strongest Big City apparatus. It is linked with the drive in Gary, where there is a rank and file labor committee for Goldwater.

LED BY TWO members of the big steel mills locals there, it calls itself "Gary Steelworkers for Truth." It's pouring literature into the hands of thousands of members of locals 1014 and 2697 of the United Steelworkers of America.

Still selecting cities at random I found labor men working for the Goldwater Citizens Committee in Seattle, Washington. The group was solicited by the Washington State Labor News for a big Labor Day advertisement. The G.O.P. gladly bought the space in the News, the oldest labor publication in the state. There was terrific reaction from the labor leadership. The paper was shut down a few weeks later.

During a recent AFL - CIO state convention in Davenport, Iowa, some delegates encountered a Republican gubernatorial nominee in the lobby. There was an argument. A few delegates rushed to the Republican's defense. They offered to defend him physically. They wore Goldwater-Miller buttons.

In the East, the city of Baltimore is typical of the G.O.P. Big City operation. There last Thursday (Oct. 8) the Program director rented the big ballroom at the Lord Baltimore Hotel and invited volunteers including some union men in that center of steel mills and electronic factories.

MORE THAN SIX hundred jammed the hall. They were organized into teams and given "vote quotas" across the entire city including election districts in which masses of union men live. In a few days they were out working the Big City Program street-by-street strategy which has enabled the Republican Party to make over seven million individual contacts across the country.

This is the story in Pittsburgh, Kansas City, Newark, and similar unionized areas, as well as Atlanta, Ga. Program Director Unger has told his national leaders he will have men in every precinct in the big "14" cities where labor is strong as well as in communities where the labor membership is sparse.

BASCOM TIMMONS

Senator's Office Highly Important

IN THE FIFTY years since United States Senators began to be elected by direct vote of citizens instead of State legislatures interest in these elections has continued to increase until it is second only to that in Presidential elections.

The United States Senate rather than Governor's offices has become recruiting grounds for Presidential candidates.

Presidents are limited to two terms of 4 years each (give or take a year or two in the case of a Vice President who comes to the Presidency by succession.)

A Senator can remain in office as long as his constituents are willing. One of those now serving, Senator Carl Hayden of Arizona, has been in that body for 37 years. Thirty years of service is not uncommon and a Senator can become a very powerful man after he has had a dozen years of service.

THE SENATE RACES this year furnish two prospective Senators who will certainly be rated as likely Presidential nominees of the two major parties if they win these 1964 tryouts.

One of them is the grandson of a President, the son of a United States Senator of great fame, and himself now a member of the House of Representatives. He is 47 - year old Robert A. Taft, Jr. The Taft name has become the best known in Ohio politics of any for more than a half century.

The other spotlighted Senatorial candidate is the brother of a President, who has not himself been elected to any office, or indeed ever ran for elective office. He is Robert F. Kennedy, Attorney General in the Cabinet of his brother, President John F. Kennedy and in the Cabinet of President Johnson until recently. Kennedy is not a name that has registered big as a local New York political name. There has been no Kennedy elected to high Statewide office in New York, but two of the name have been short-term members of Congress from that state. Robert F. Kennedy has not been in the State long enough to vote at the election next month.

AS OF NOW THE two Bobs, Taft and Kennedy, are favorites to win. Standing in Taft's way is 74 - year old Democratic Senator Stephen M. Young, a fluke winner in 1958, who is certainly going nowhere much in his party, but may not be the pushover for reelection he once seemed to be.

Taft disavows Presidential ambitions as he naturally would at this time. But he must be certain that his name would be on the tongue of Republicans for 1968 or 1972 immediately, if he is elected. Consider the Taft background — his great grandfather a member of President Grant's Cabinet (Attorney General), and Ambassador to Russia; his grandfather President of the United States and Chief Justice of the United States; his father chosen by a select Senate Committee as one of the five greatest United States Senators in the nation's history, and twice an aspirant for the Republican Presidential nomination.

ROBERT F. KENNEDY is also talking to the voters of New York about what he thinks he might do for them in the United States Senate. But where one might imagine Robert A. Taft Jr., as comfortable in a Senate career, it is difficult to think of Robert F. Kennedy in a long - term Senate role.

Kennedy, though generally favored to win, is no cinch to unseat Republican Senator Kenneth Keating. Keating has important backing and is well bankrolled. There have been estimates that the Kennedy and Keating spending combined would come close to $3,000,000. That is a sum which the late Bret Harte would call "coming it strong" for an office which pays a salary, beginning in January, of $30,000 a year, or $180,000 for the full six - year term.

Neither Taft nor Young is spending large sums in their Ohio race, although neither is hurting for such funds as he needs. Ohio just has never been one of those states where big money is a requisite for candidates.

Should both Taft and Kennedy win they conceivably could be the opposing Presidential standard bearers in some not distant year. But should Keating mess up Kennedy or Young turn back Taft that would be quite a different story for the future. And should Taft and Kennedy both lose? That certainly would be an event second only in interest to the outcome of the Johnson-Goldwater contest.

Special Session On Teachers Pay Set Nov. 15

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The legislature will meet in special session on or about Nov. 15 to dig up funds for a substantial teacher pay raise, Gov. John McKeithen announced Friday.

The session call also may include a proposal to repeal the controversial liquor pricing law, the governor told a news conference here.

Louisiana school teachers have demanded $1,000 annual across-the-board raises — a figure that totals $48.6 million when raises for other school personnel are counted.

McKeithen declined to say the size of the raise he would propose other than that it would be substantial. He indicated, however, the $1,000 figure would not be reached.

The House of Delegates of the Louisiana Teachers Association will meet in special session at Alexandria Saturday to talk strategy in pushing teacher demands. Teacher leaders have warned that teachers would not be satisfied with anything less than full implementation of the $1,000 a year increase proposed by the United School Committee.

There were hints of a teacher strike if the full increase does not come through.

"I am confident that as long as they are convinced we are doing all we can to help get them increases they will never strike," McKeithen said.

"I doubt if the majority would strike if they got no raise. They're dedicated people."

McKeithen said C. H. Downs, a state Democratic leader, would attend the Alexandria meeting as his observer.

The governor said the legislators would have the task of finding the money for teacher salary boosts but he hoped the revenues could be located without a general tax increase.

One possibility, he said, would be to plug loopholes in the sales tax.

McKeithen said he will make public his plan for raising the money within the next several days.

He made it clear the teacher pay issue was the only reason he was calling the special session out. He said he would include repeal of the liquor pricing law in the session call if 40 per cent of the members of either house requested him to do so.

McKeithen said several Baton Rouge legislators, who co-sponsored the legislation, had approached him about repeal.

The governor also announced at his news conference:

—A decision by American Cyanamid Co. for a $30 million expansion at its petrochemical complex at Fortier in Jefferson Parish.

—Appointment of an eight-member committee to find a new warden for the state penitentiary at Angola. The committee also will serve as an advisory group on the prison's operations.

H. L. Hanchey has been serving as acting warden since the mid-July resignation of veteran warden Victor Walker. The State Civil Service Commission has ruled Hanchey lacked educational qualifications to fill the job.

The Open Door Home, Inc. for Destitute Local Children

(Office Address) 207 South 1st, W.M. FA 3-2044

Another word of thanks to the many North La. residents who have helped establish and are continuing to help the precious children under the care of the Open Door Home.

The Open Door Home does not receive a regularly monthly check from a denomination or any state agency. The home is underwritten by no one individual or agency. The Open Door Home, Inc. is a non-denominational, non-profit, temporary home for children from broken homes.

The Open Door Home has been open for 9 weeks. Several thousand meals have been provided the individuals in our care. Clothing has been provided the children. Most of the children have had only the clothes on their back when they entered the Open Door Home.

The Open Door Home is serving the North La. area and its board members who serve on a voluntary basis sincerely ask your help in meeting the monthly expense. The project needs to enlarge to meet the need in this area for such a project operated on an interdenominational basis and serving the community.

The Open Door Home is located in the old abandoned Cypress school building in Ward 9, Ouachita Parish. It is non-profit, christian, and operated on an interdenominational basis. The work is supported by individual free will offering.

The Home has organized a choir and has been invited in the last few weeks to appear before a number of North La. Churches and organizations interested in the welfare of destitute local children. The choir will be happy to appear before any interested local group and present its brief program. A speaker will also be provided your group so that it may learn more about this community project.

The Home is in need of food, financial aid, large or small, and toys for birthdays and Christmas. This aid is needed on a regular basis and the spiritual returns to the giver are unlimited. Interested persons are asked to investigate this community project farther to see how they may be of service. Businesses are asked to give monthly along with individuals and organizations. Memorial gifts given in memory of a deceased friend are welcomed.

If further information is desired you may call FA 3-2044 or write the Open Door Home, office address, 207 South 1st, W.M. Remember the choir wants to sing before your group soon.

Sincerely,

Pictured above is ALLAN BUSBY, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Busby of 1611 So. 2nd St. He represents a typical carrier of the 100 sales carriers in our Monroe and West Monroe Area.

Allan has been serving subscribers on a route in the south side of Monroe for nearly a year. He is earning money and using part for school expenses and saving part for a college education. He attends Jefferson Davis School and is in the 9th grade. His favorite sport is hunting. He is a patrol leader in Troop No. 120 Boy Scouts of the First Pentecostal Church. He also sings in the church choir and plays a guitar. He also plays the violin in his school orchestra.

Today, through Allan Busby, we salute the entire group of News-Star—World sales carriers and dealers in the Twin Cities and suburban areas.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you. 10-17

PROFESSOR PHUMBLE

BOY WONDER

Wilson Realizes Youthful Hopes

By United Press International

When he was 10 years old, Harold Wilson predicted he would become prime minister. A photograph shows him as a boy standing outside No. 10 Downing Street, residence of the prime minister.

Wilson made good on his prediction despite doubts of critics that he could unify the traditionally argumentative Labor party or sell himself to the British electorate. He now becomes an official tenant of the Downing street house he so admired.

Wilson was born 48 years ago in Huddersfield, the son of a druggist. He was a boy wonder.

He whizzed through an honors degree at Oxford and became an economics don there at the age of 21.

Wilson was a civil servant during World War II, and a member of Parliament at 29. At 31, he became president of the Board of Trade. But he resigned in 1951 on a point of principle when the government modified the national health service by charging for false teeth.

When Labor fell from power in 1951, Wilson began to shine in opposition. He became the party's spokesman for foreign affairs, and its leader in February, 1963, when High Gaitskell died.

What makes Harold run? His looks are deceptive. He is pudgy, with prematurely gray hair and dark circles under his eyes. He projects an image of a man of the people—complete with pipe, Yorkshire accent, cut-rate clothes and a taste for canned salmon with lots of worcestershire sauce.

But he has a photographic memory and one of the sharpest minds and wits in British politics. Few opponents care to debate him. He can cite facts and figures from long forgotten reports. He was the man who dubbed ex-Prime Minsiter Harold Macmillan "Mac the Knife."

Wilson claims he never read Marx and learned his socialism from the Boy Scouts and his religion. He attends the Congregational Church regularly and sometimes preaches. He once described socialism as "applying a sense of purpose to our national life."

Wilson met his wife, Mary, at Oxford. They have two sons, a small car and a mortgaged house in suburban London. His 15-hour day enables him to escape entertaining and cocktail parties, both which he detests. He plays golf and drinks beer, or an occasional bourbon.

Low-Yield Bomb Tested By AEC

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States detonated a nuclear test explosion of low yield Friday at the Atomic Energy Commission's Nevada test site.

Like all other recent U.S. nuclear tests, the blast was underground.

A low-yield explosion has a blast force of less than 20,000 tons of TNT.

SHUBA, A PET bobcat, licks the face of Dave Atkinson at the home of Shuba's owners, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schloss, in Los Angeles Friday. The 25-pound bobcat was missing for 24 hours before it was found in a garage eight blocks from the Schloss residence. Schloss and Dave, a neighbor, headed for the garage where Dave coaxed the animal out of hiding. And, says Mrs. Schloss, she understands someone — who didn't know Shuba is tame — took a shot at the bobcat. (AP Wirephoto)

Chinese To Use Bomb For Diplomacy

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

AP Special Correspondent

Red China, after traveling a long, rocky road to a nuclear test explosion, now can be expected to mount a diplomatic drive to become the nuclear club spokesman for a third world.

Peking's feat—no matter how long it will take to acquire stockpile and deliveries—is gloomy news for the West and the Soviet Union.

Not only is the development likely to increase tension between Moscow and the Red Chinese, but it also can step up the potential of the Peking regime fort rouble-making.

Already, with the explosion of a nuclear device, Red China is in an enhanced position to pursue one of its major policy aims —creation of an "intermediate zone"—a third world—which it envisions as a bloc, regarding the Soviet Union and the United States with equal hostility.

The main direction of this drive is in Asia, Africa and Latin America, the so-called underdeveloped world, where Red Chinese diplomacy already is extremely active—and in some cases highly successful.

In the nonwhite world, the impact of the feat will be heavy.

It is probable that what the Chinese did was accomplished without significant Soviet help. China's do-it-yourself drive toward the nuclear club's door began in earnest in 1958. Since then the drive brought increasing estrangement from Moscow, a widening rift in the world Communist movement and a quiet purge inside Red China involving both the party and the army.

As long ago as 1950, shortly after the revolution enveloped the China mainland, Peking's nuclear aspirations became a problem for Moscow. Though Joseph Stalin — for anti-Soviet propaganda purposes—now is given a place of honor by Peking in the Red Pantheon, the Soviet dictator seemed leery of Chinese ambitions and suspicious of such potential power on the Soviet border.

Stalin signed a mutual aid agreement with Peking in 1950. It appeared to fall far short of what Mao Tze-tung wanted in the military field. Such aid seemed limited to technical training and material. It was increased somewhat after Red China intervened in the Korean War, but the Chinese bought Soviet equipment on long-term credit and went deeply into debt until 1957.

The Chinese in 1957 openly complained that it was unfair of the Russians to saddle China with the burdensome cost of the Korean War.

One section of the 1950 treaty was believed to have dealt with joint development of uranium in Sinkiang Province, but this was reversed after Stalin died and the Chinese took full control of the operation. However, plutonium 239 instead of uranium 235 may have been used in China's test.

In the post-Stalin era, Moscow agreed to cooperate on peaceful uses of nuclear energy. The Chinese sent scientists to the Dubna nuclear research center. But Peking pressed constantly for help on nuclear weapons technology, incessantly urged the Russians to recognize the Chinese need. They sent a military delegation to Moscow in 1957 to seek such help.

The mission, headed by the then defense minister, Marshal Peng Teh-huai, evidently made no progress and signs of a Soviet-Chinese split became apparent.

Peng, refusing to give up, tried again and again. He is believed to have clashed with Mao over the truculent attitude toward Moscow which Peng probably felt hurt any chances of help toward the nuclear club.

Peng disappeared into oblivion, accused of being "antiparty." Other ranking military men were relieved of their posts. The housecleaning reached high into party vice chairman and so beginning in 1958, and about six party vice chairman and some government people were quietly removed. Today, a new and even deeper purge is believed in progress to weed out remaining elements suspected of pro-Moscow leanings.

In 1958, Soviet-hating Marshal Chen Yi, then foreign minister, predicted publicly that China would build her own nuclear weapon. But China still was far away from the goal, and Mao called the atomic bomb a "paper tiger," propounding the theory that manpower would be the deciding factor in world politics. China had plenty of that.

But the party leadership became more enraged than ever with Moscow when then-Premier Khrushchev suggested that Asia be made a nuclear-free zone. The Chinese in 1960 served notice they would ignore any disarmament agreement reached by the Soviet Union and the West.

The split deepened. The Russians withdrew all their military advisers and technicians. Chen Yi defiantly reasserted the doctrine of "reliance on one's own resources," and Peking boasted that it was making strides toward overcoming difficulties raised by "modern revisionists refusal" to lend technical information.

In August 1962, Chen Yi announced publicly that China was devoting "tremendous" resources to development of a nuclear bomb which he said China wanted "for the sole reason that the capitalists consider us underdeveloped and defenseless as long as we lack the ultimate weapon."

When Khrushchev signed a partial nuclear test ban with Washington last year, the Chinese reacted with rage, calling the pact a "fraud to deceive the people" and refusing again to be bound by such agreements.

A Red Chinese test explosion can be considered strong propaganda for Peking, raising its potential in the political wars of Asia and Africa and its capacity to harass its political opponents in Moscow, even though Khrushchev, the No. 1 enemy, is gone.

While the Chinese are a long way from a delivery system and stockpile, their explosion of a device will raise difficulties for Russians and Americans, both acutely aware of the propaganda effect. Other nations, too, will be uneasy. Japan, for example, may seek revisions of her treaty with the United States to strengthen her security. India will be deeply worried.

State Law Group Set To Work Up New Constitution

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The Louisiana Law Institute is ready to start rewriting the state's king-sized constitution, if the voters give their consent Nov. 3, an official said Friday.

LLI Director J. Denison Smith said in an interview the legislature's instructions to get to work on an article-by-article rewriting of the Louisiana Constitution was "a significant opportunity" for the state agency.

Key to solving an old problem concerning the state's basic law is the public vote on proposed constitutional amendment No. 4 in the election Nov. 3.

The amendment won legislative approval with backing of Gov. John McKeithen's administration. It would remove a legal barrier to revising the constitution in large portions.

The constitution now restricts revisions to more specific topics. This has resulted in scores of amendments being put before the voters in general election, and a constantly expanding basic law, which government experts have claimed for some time should be condensed.

Distrust of succeeding state administrations is credited often with blocking efforts to hold a general constitutional convention that could start from scratch.

In addition to the constitutional proposal, the legislature directed the LLI, an official advisory commission on law revision, reform and research, to get started quickly.

Kiwanians Set Week To Help Handicapped

The North Monroe Kiwanis Club is sponsoring a "Help the Handicapped Week" beginning Monday, Lloyd Henderson, chairman, announced. He will be assisted by A. F. "Tony" Canizaro, co-chairman.

In sponsoring the special week, the club members are seeking aids for handicapped persons, such as wheel chairs, crutches, braces and walking canes.

Henderson and Canizaro said "we are requesting to all persons in Ouachita parish to check their homes, attics, garages and warehouses and see if they can find wheel chairs, crutches, braces for children and adults, walking canes and walking sticks. All such items found can be brought to the KTVE office on Catalpa street and they in turn will be turned over to the Salvation Army for proper distribution. Please help the handicapped as much as you can."

How To Keep Well

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

LEAPING DEER AND FLYING SWANS

Birds and beasts cause many freak accidents. I called a friend the other day only to learn he was in the hospital. His wife told me he was driving home from the country and hit a deer. He was lucky to be alive but the car was a total wreck.

It is a startling experience to have a bird fly into the windshield or to have an animal dart in front of the car. The normal inclination is to swerve to one side. Several years ago an Illinois woman did this to avoid hitting a pheasant. She lost control, hit a tree, and was killed. The pheasant lived. We have all turned off course when a squirrel darted across the road or a hawk or other bird flew toward the window. Several airline crashes have been traced to collisions with swans or starlings.

A story was told in the Journal of American Insurance about a driver who was startled when a deer leaped into the road ahead of the car. He went into the ditch and wrecked the automobile. He obtained another car and later in the day headed down the same highway. Another deer jumped out. He swerved again and wrecked the second car by hitting a fence.

The insurance industry pays for most of these mishaps. This runs into money but probably is not as expensive as the conflagration that occurred when Mrs. O'Leary's cow kicked over the lantren. This started the great Chicago fire that put many insurance companies out of business.

A farm boy took a shot at a sparrow perched on the wheel of a farm wagon. The wagon was demolished, nearby stores and factories were damaged, windows in 600 homes were broken, and power lines were knocked down. This sparrow caused a peck of trouble because the wagon contained 300 pounds of dynamite.

A squirrelly claim that has no health angle involved one of these furry vandals. It wiggled thru the grill of new car and dragged away the insulation pad under the hood. The insurance company assumes there is now "a squirrel house with wall-to-wall carpeting."

TUBERCULIN POSITIVE

Mrs. J.M. writes: Does a positive tuberculin test mean active tuberculosis?

REPLY

Not necessarily. It means the individual has made contact with tubercle bacilli, which may or may not have caused an active infection. These people are advised to have periodic chest X-rays and to keep their health at par.

L. E. IN WOMEN

L. M. C. writes: In your article on lupus erythematosus, you say it favors women of childbearing age. Can men develop the disease?

REPLY

Yes, occasionally. Women make up 80 to 90 per cent of all victims.

Beautification Efforts Pushed In West Monroe

The beautification committee of the West Monroe Chamber of Commerce is re-emphasizing a continuing push against littering in and around the city, Mrs. Ruby Cloyd, chairman, announced.

"Many vacant lots in town need mowing," said Mrs. Cloyd after a meeting of her committee. "Some of these lots have also become convenient dumps for garbage."

She urged the public to "become more award of unsightly conditions and try to correct them."

In other committee meetings this week, Hugh Balfour's legislative committee determined positions in 41 proposed amendments to the Louisiana Constitution and will report at the Chamber board of directors meeting, 7 a.m. Wednesday.

The education committee, under Dr. T. Scott Strickland, also met and will report to directors at the same time.

NEVILLE HALFBACK Bobby Robinson picks up eight yards on this play early in the first quarter as Neville is driving to its first touchdown of the night. Robinson went to the three here, and four plays later Neville scored. Picking up a good block for Robinson is guard Mike Boyett. Neville went on to win, 14-7, and remain undefeated after five games. Tigers Top Ruston, 14-7, In Homecoming Battle

By KEITH PRINCE
World Sports Editor

With an overflowing Neville homecoming crowd of better than 5,000 looking on, Ruston's double-A Bearcats gave the Tigers their biggest scare of the season Friday night before bowing to the second ranked triple-A team in Louisiana, 14-7.

Not until little defensive halfback Dale Young intercepted a Ruston pass on the Neville 20 yardline with 11 seconds left in the game could the unbeaten Bengals of Charlie Brown feel partially safe. Although completely outclassed in the statistical department, Ruston battled Neville to the hilt all night behind the gallant efforts of such stalwarts as guard Danny Watson, quarterback Bill Jones and end Jack Trammell.

YARDSTICK

	Neville	Ruston

Had Intc.	0	2

Pen.	3-25	3-30

Watson alone kept Ruston in the ball game much of the night with three fumble recoveries, the second which he plucked out of mid-air and rambled 40 yards with the Bearcats' only touchdown of the night.

Jones also kept Neville reeling on its heels some of the night, and particularly early in the third quarter when he spearheaded a Ruston drive of 52 yards by completing five straight passes to Trammell — only to see if fizzle when a fourth down pass to halfback Wayne Packman was batted away on the goalline by Fred Amman.

Despite the heroics of an inspired group of Bearcats, Neville's talent, savvy and determination prevailed.

The Tigers, who have jumped from the ranks of "no-bodies" to the throne of prestige in just five ball games, had too much, too often for the 'Cats.

Neville rolled to 303 yards total offense for the night while Ruston managed just 118. Of the Neville total, 251 came on the ground behind the razzle-dazzle sprints of halfbacks Ronnie Clark, who led with 97, Bobby Robinson's 58 and Young with 55, plus the power bursts of fullback Robert McSherry who collected 30.

The local Bengals finished with 15 first downs to Ruston's nine.

However, the statistical category which added most to the contest was "fumbles lost" where Neville found itself on the wrong end of five bobbles and Ruston four.

And every lost fumble came at a crucial point in the game. Neville fell on three Ruston fumbles inside its 10 yard line while Ruston nabbed two inside its own 10. Ruston also came up with two more inside the 35 of Neville plus Watson's "steal" which netted seven points.

NEVILLE STRIKES

After Ruston received the opening kickoff and failed to pick up a first down,-a Bearcat punt gave Neville possession at its own 43. On first down McSherry dented the line for two yards to the 45.

Quarterback Kenny Cobb then faked another handoff to McSherry on second down, dropped back and connected with end Larry Sheffield behind everybody at the Ruston 20. Sheffield, off stride on the catch, was finally pulled down at the Ruston 11 on a play covering 44 yards.

From here Neville pounded down to the Ruston two in three plays and faced a fourth and one for a first, or two for the TD. McSherry got the call but a stout 'Cat defense pushed him off the goal in what for a second appeared to be a no-gain play. However, McSherry did make enough for the first down and on the next play the big fullback crashed over for the score.

Monty Moncrief booted the first of two - successful conversions to put Ruston in a seven-point hole it could never overcome.

After the ensuing kickoff, Neville again held Ruston and Clark's fair catch on a Parkman punt gave the Tigs possession at their 32.

From here, behind the running of Robinson, Young and Clark, Neville moved convincingly down Ruston's throat to the one yardline where it picked up the fourth first down of the drive. Clark's wide left end sweep for 26 yards was the big gainer.

However, from the one Neville got its first dose of "Watson to the rescue" as the 198 pound guard pounced on Robinson's fumble in the backfield on a handoff from Cobb and gave Ruston possession at the five.

But Ruston pulled a "do unto others" act here and fumlbed right back to Neville with Amman recovering fullback Pete Theodos' bobble at the 10 on the last play of the first quarter.

Neville wasted little time getting on the scoreboard again from here. After a jump pass attempt to Sheffield failed, Clark broke around right end went into the endzone untouched. Moncrief's kick made it 14-0 and it looked like the beginning of a Tiger landrush to gold-dust territory.

But Ruston got right back in the ball game minutes later when do-it-yourself Watson grabbed his second Tiger fumble of the night, this one in the air when Cobb was late handing off on a delayed trap play to Robinson. Watson wasted little time heading for paydirt and 40 yards later crossed the goal for Ruston's TD with the nearest men to him being a horde of his teammates who stood between him and any Tigers.

Parkman kicked the extra point and both teams had their points for the night. But this was far from all the action for the night—or for the first half.

Behind the bootleg runs of Jones, Ruston mounted a sustained drive late in the quarter which covered 49 yards to the Neville one before it was stymied first by a tremendous tackle by linebacker McSherry and one play later on a fumble recovery by Tiger end Mike Pearson.

Neville then ran out the clock, finishing the first half with possession of the ball at Ruston's 21.

SECOND HALF

If anything, the second half was more exciting than the first. After tackle George Gillum pounced on a Neville fumble at Ruston's 34 early in the third quarter, the fireworks really started.

Jones, putting on a creditable imitation of Johnny Unitas, passed and ran Neville dizzy on a drive which was one of the most breath-taking of the night. Jones rolled left, rolled right and mixed in an assortment of pass patterns — all to Trammell — on the drive which appeared destined to prove an equalizer on the scoreboard.

Five times during the drive Jones connected with Tammell on passes over the middle, including four straight. The fourth was a four yarder which gave Ruston the ball, second and six on the Neville 10. But Neville stiffened here behind the efforts of linebacker Charles Williams and tackle Ronnie DeMoss and Amman's fine defensive play on the Jones-to-Trammell attempt on fourth down.

Still it looked like the end of the rainbow for Ruston when Young fumbled on first down at the 16 and guess-who (Watson) fell on it at the Neville seven.

But McSherry came up with one of the biggest plays of the night for Neville on Ruston's first running attempt from here when he crashed into Jones, causing him to fumble, and pounced on the ball at the seven.

This ended Ruston's last serious bid for a second touchdown.

The Tigers did receive two more slight scares, both in the last two minutes. On the first, Ruston had the ball first and five following a penalty, at their own 45, but Clark came to the rescue with a leaping pass interception at Neville's 35 with just 49 seconds later.

But Ruston got possession again one play later when Doug Cookston fumbled the snap and Gillum fell on it.

This set the stage for Young's pass theft which sewed up things for Neville with just 11 seconds left.

Score by quarters:

Neville	7	7	0	0—	14
Ruston	0	7	0	0—	7

Scoring summary:
Nev—Robert McSherry, 1 yard run, Monty Moncrief kick.
Nev—Ronnie Clark, 11 yard run, Moncrief kick.
Rust—Danny Watson, 40 yards on fumble recovery, Wayne Parkman kick.

World Series Managers Will Not Be Back In 1965

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Yogi Berra lost his job as manager of the New York Yankees Friday, only a few hours after Johnny Keane, manager of the world champion St. Louis Cardinals, announced his resignation.

The stunning moves—in an unprecedented aftermath of the World Series—left both the American and National League champions without a field boss.

Neither club named a successor.

Keane, whose Cardinals captured the series by winning Thursday's seventh and deciding game, made public a letter of resignation he handed to St. Louis owner August Busch before the regular season was over.

Berra, who inherited the Yankee managerial job from Ralph Houk this year, was stripped of his post and given a two-year contract as a field consultant for the team. The announcement was made by Houk, now general manager, at a press conference in New York.

Keane's letter, dated Sept. 28, stated he would quit after the Cardinals played their last game.

In another baseball development Friday the Board of Directors of the Cleveland Indians announced the Indians would remain in Cleveland for the 1965 season and not move the franchise as had been rumored.

Houk said:

"The move we have made had nothing to do with the Yankees loss of the World Series. We believe this move will be beneficial to all concerned.

Houk said the Yankees would probably make an announcement within a week about a new manager. He said Al Dark is among those being considered and that Keane's name would likely be added to the list.

Dark was fired as manager of the San Francisco Giants at the end of the season and replaced by Herman Franks.

Asked if any current players on the Yankees were under consideration, Houk said he thought it "was an unfair question since we're going to have an announcement within the week."

After six years in the National Hockey League New York Ranger Phil Goyette, a center, blossomed into a star last season. He nettted 24 goals for 65 points, eighth best figure in the NHL.

But Jena came back with two markers in the same period, the first coming on a 62 yard pass play from Chris Tarver to Sonny Walpole. The kick for the PAT was no good. The second for Jena came after recovering a fumble on the 29.

The second play later Tarver passed to Jerry Don Mosley, covering 26 yards. The kick was no good, giving Block a 14-12 halftime margin.

The last score of the game came on an 11 yard run in the third stanza. Holland ran the extra point to make the final score, 21-12.

Kiroli Wins, 32-13

David Hendricks scored 25 points on touchdown runs of 40 twice, 15, and two yards and an extra point.

Actually the Comets had to come from behind to win as Millsaps scored first on a 25 yard run by Bone in the first period. Reitzamer added the PAT.

Kiroli tied it on a two yard plunge by Hendricks.

The scoring was mostly Kiroli from here on with Millsaps scoring one more TD and the Comets four more.

Leading the Comets on defense were Jeff Hendricks, who played an outstanding game as quarterback, David Hendricks, Lonnie Magouirk, Robbie Fowlkes, Ed Stevens and Johnny Pace.

For Millsaps it was Roger Lindsey, Rusty McCoy, Johnny Foster and Reitzamer.

Trojans Blank Hornets

TALLULAH (Special) — After a nip-and-tuck first quarter the Tallulah Trojans took charge in the second period with two quick touchdowns and went on to a 27-0 district 2-A victory over the Rayville Hornets Friday night.

The state's No. 1 ranked Class A Trojans sent Mike Luckett over from the three with the first touchdown after a 38-yard drive, and before the half was over the Trojans generated a drive from their own 31 in eight plays to the Rayville 27 from where Billy Laird passed to Ed Lee for the TD. Don Morton kicked points after each touchdown to give Tallulah a 14-0 halftime margin.

Tallulah took the kickoff opening the second half and 15 plays later, plus two penalties on each side, saw Luckett bust over tackle from the seven.

A fourth quarter Tallulah drive started from the Trojan 33, and a moment later Woody Cagnolatti slipped through tackle and scooted 67 yards to score. Artie Bray added the point.

Rayville made its most serious threat in the third quarter when the Hornets drove for a first down on the Tallulah nine, but the Trojans held for downs and took over on their own three.

After the last Trojan TD, Coach "Racer" Holstead turned the game over to his reserves for the last six minutes and 32 seconds. Rayville got another drive started, but the game ended with the Hornets on the Trojan 24.

Winnfield Triumphs

FERRIDAY (Special) — Winnfield had the edge in aerial bombs Friday night to beat Ferriday, 13-6, in an intersectional battle of double-A football teams here.

John Fudickar's pass to David James on a play covering 67 yards gave Ferriday the lead in the first quarter, but Winnfield stormed back its touchdowns on second quarter passes.

Bob White threw both TD passes for the Tigers, the first a five-yarder to Jim Duncan and the second on a 47-yard play that saw Danny Sullivan scoring. Jim Wallace kicked the point behind the first TD.

Ferriday led in first downs, 9-7, rushed for 153 yards against 97 for Winnfield and completed four of 18 passes for 108 yards. Winnfield intercepted two Ferriday throws and completed three of four for 61 yards.

C. C. Rabb played fine defensive ball for Ferriday, getting most of his club's tackles. Tommy Wilson and Johnny Jones were offensive standouts, James Duncan and Jim Wallace were Winnfield's offensive best, while Lawrence White, who missed the early part of the season because of an injury, was tops on defense.

Waterproof Wins

STERLINGTON (Special) — Waterproof pushed across two touchdowns in the final two periods here Friday night to hand Sterlington a 20-6 defeat.

The Tensas Tigers scored in the third period to break a 6-6 deadlock when Ed Butts blocked a Sterlington punt and recovered in the end zone. Quarterback Bill Walker tossed a pass to E. T. Hale for the point after to give Waterproof a seven point lead going into the fourth.

Late in the game Walker scored on a three-yard plunge to end a 50-yard drive and then kicked the PAT for the Tigers final score.

Waterproof got on the scoreboard early in the game when Sammy Martien went off tackle on the first play from scrimmage for 70 yards to score. The PAT attempt failed.

Sterlington came back to knot the contest in the second when Mike Powell hauled in a 25-yard pass from Panther quarterback Tommy Brackman. The PAT attempt failed.

Kirk Hazlip, Martien, Paul Reinhard, Mal Lancaster and Pollard Lee were the Tigers defensive leaders with end Charlie Earl standing out on Sterlington defense.

LaSalle Defeated

LAKE PROVIDENCE (Special) — Lake Providence used LaSalle miscues to blank the visitors, 27-0, here Friday night.

The host Panthers recovered three fumbles and intercepted a pass that led to all four scores.

Dan Durbin scored the first marker from the five. David Clarkston booted the extra point.

The second score came in the second period. Quarterback Van Hicks Jr. rolled around left end scored from the one. Again Clarkston kicked the PAT making the score, 14-0 at the half.

Recovering another LaSalle fumble, Hicks scored his second touchdown for Lake Providence. The kick failed, the score, 20-0.

The last touchdown of the game followed an intercepted pass. The scoring play was on a two-yard run by Clarkston. He added the PAT, making the score 27-0.

Vidalia, 20-7

SICILY ISLAND (Special) — Vidalia bounced back from a 13-12 loss to Tallulah last week to down the Sicily Island Tigers, 20-7, here Friday night.

The Vikings from Vidalia scored in the first period of play when Robert Forester went around end for 73 yards. Joe Stampley booted the extra point.

Just before the end of the first half, Vidalia scored its second marker. Jamie Jackson's three-yard plunge was the scoring play. The kick failed giving the Vikings a 13-0 halftime lead.

After intermission, Sicily Island tallied its only score on a 78-yard run by Arnold Ready. Jimmy Newman's kick for the PAT was good, cutting the lead to 13-7.

J-H received the opening kickoff and used 14 plays going for the opening touchdown, Moffett cracking over from the one. Before the first quarter was over end Glen Carter set up touchdown No. 2 when he blocked a punt and the Tigers started moving again from the Natchitoches 18, Mize going 16 for the payoff.

In the second quarter, a 56-yard return of an intercepted pass by Allen Weatherford put Sulphur on the Istrouma 19. Two plays later Blake passed 16 yards to Ken McElroy in the end zone for another touchdown and Ricky Cardenas converted.

FALL TO BOSSIER

Ouachita Stalls Off 7-0 Loss Until Fourth Quarter

BOSSIER CITY (Special) — Ouachita Parish's plucky Lions held off four Bossier marches throughout the contest before surrendering to a fourth-period drive and dropping a 7-0 District 1-AAA verdict to the Bearcats.

The Lions of Coach Frank Mobley held twice at their one-yard line. With seven minutes remaining in the ball game they gave up the contest's only marker when Bearkat Mike Enis swept left end for 13 yards.

Ken Beach booted the extra point.

Enis delighted a homecoming crowd by rushing for 141 yards on 21 carries. He and James Smith handled the brunt of the Bearkat rushing game which produced 271 yards.

Ouachita's Jimmy Knighten, in addition to playing an outstanding defensive game, completed four aerials for 66 yards and was the big noise for the Lions.

In the rushing department, Wayne Jensen, Dick McNair had 29 yards apiece on nine carries.

This was Bossier's second victory in the district against a tie with Byrd. The Bearcats face Neville in Monroe next week. They hold a 3-2-1 overall record.

Ouachita, which snapped an extended losing streak by beating Bastrop last week, is 1-5 for the campaign.

Knighten and Pat Welker stalled a Bossier drove in the first period when they nailed the Bearkat quarterback for a one-yard loss on a fourth and goal situation.

Skeeter Boyd got the game's only interception with 45 seconds left in the half to nullify another Bearkat drive inside the 10.

Ouachita held again at their one in the third quarter with the aid of a 15-yard clipping penalty.

The clip wiped out a scoring play which saw Enis trapped behind the line of scrimmage. He managed a lateral to quarterback Ken Kruithof who swept into the end zone around the opposite flank.

Facts Uncovered By World Series

By Keith Prince

The 1964 World Series offered something for everyone. It was a series which had hitting, pitching and some good, old fashioned arguments. And, this series may have also told us a few new facts about the New York Yankees.

When St. Louis won its first World Series championship since 1946 Thursday afternoon it did so against the premier champs of baseball, the Bronx Bombers.

Although the series' events will be debated for months to come, there is one principal reason why St. Louis won all the marbles. And that reason is, simply without speculation, St. Louis was the better team.

We are not saying that New York is not a better club than St. Louis over a span of 100 games or more, we are not saying that the mighty Yanks should be turned out to pasture — but we are saying that in the past seven games of baseball, watched by most of you, St. Louis was a better club than New York.

Look back over the series as a whole. You can not help but agree. Time and again both clubs had opportunities to break the series open, to win a game which would wrap it up. Plainly, and for the world to see, New York just didn't make the big play which it is noted for.

Actually, to sum up the series in a nut shell, the key was not one player, or one play which spelled the difference. The difference was New York's lack of a dependable bullpen "stopper."

People are beginning to wonder if the Yankee luster is fading, if it "ain't the same anymore." And people have a right to wonder. Not in 42 years has this embarrassment of losing two World Series in a row happened to New York. (Embarrassment — ha. Any other club would welcome the chance to lose twice in succession in the baseball classic.)

However, there is something missing from the Yankees. And to find what the answer is, we went to the man who knows more about the Yankees than anybody in our area. This man is Wayne Causey, a winter time Monroe resident, who makes his living by playing against the New York Yankees in the summer.

Wayne, the regular shortstop of the Kansas City Athletics, is here now completing work on his degree from Northeast State College — and finding time to watch a little of the recent World Series.

"I can't say I was surprised the Cardinals won," the hustling infielder remarked, "although I was disappointed. Even though by profession I'm a Yankee hater, I was pulling for them because I know the players and, naturally, because they are in the American League. St. Louis has a very well balanced club.

"The difference, it seems to me, was poor pitching by the Yanks. They are definitely weak in this department, especially in the bullpen.

"It really hurt them to not have Pedro Ramos out there." Ramos is the pitcher acquired by New York September 7, after he was placed on waivers by Cleveland late in August. It's still a mystery to many how all nine lower - placed clubs could pass up Ramos and let the Yanks pick him up.

"No doubt about it," Wayne said, "Ramos was one of the big reasons New York won the pennant this year. He's their top reliever, in fact their only dependable one."

As to the question about whether the Yanks seem to be losing some of their power, Wayne said, "Yes, I actually believe they are weaker than they used to be. Mostly because of pitching. They are going to have trouble winning the pennant consistently again if their pitching isn't improved. I look for Baltimore and Chicago, plus Detroit, to be up there next year. If Detroit comes up with one more good starting pitcher it will stand an excellent chance of staying in contention."

About Whitey Ford, the KC star remarked, "he appears near the end of the line to me. Whitey relys heavily on control and wasn't as good this year as in the past. He looked good against us several times but other times looked pretty bad. And, of course, he seems to be having more trouble staying healthy now."

Wayne didn't have a lot to say about his own achievements this spring, which were near the top of the list for American League shortstops. His .281 average was second in the league for shortstops, behind Eddie Bressoud's .293 and he was among the leaders in number of hits, 170.

"I was somewhat disappointed with my final average since I went into the last three weeks of the season hitting .300. But I'll be happy with a .280 year every season." And Kansas City will be too.

One Last Glance

Going back to the series for a last glance. As is the case with almost everybody, picking one specific event as the turning point of the series is a must. Although, as already stated, we don't believe the outcome was a result of one play we do have one incident which had a great deal of bearing on it.

This would have to be St. Louis third baseman Ken Boyer's first home run, hit in the sixth inning of the fourth game.

Boyer's homer came with the bases loaded and with New York ahead in the game 3-0. Also, the Yanks were ahead in the series two games to one. The blast gave St. Louis a 4-3 lead, which it held, and evened the series, two games to two.

A loss by St. Louis in this game would have given the Yanks a 3-1 margin in games and an almost insurmountable lead.

Still, there were so many great plays, some tremendous pitching and even a few costly errors that could be called "turning points."

We'll just have to say that it was a series which had some of everything and was one of the most entertaining in a long time. And, even though the Yanks were losing their second straight, that 20-9 World Series record of their isn't all that bad.

Ship Sinking Fast

Maybe it happens to the best of 'em at some time or another, but we had sure rather it hadn't happened to us so suddenly. Our collegiate football predictions for last week resembled the new boob-tube (TV) series, "Voyage To The Bottom Of The Sea." Translation: The ship sunk.

For the record, we missed five of 19 for a .737 mark. Going into last week we stood among the elite with an 800-plus percentage (.813) but those five teams who took us to the cleaners leaves us with an overall total of .792, including 61 right out of 77 selections.

This week these teams will do this: (Man, you gotta have confidence.)

Gulf States Conference: McNeese 14, Northeast 7 — Tribe continues improvement, but law of the west prevails. Northwestern 24, Ouachita Baptist 0—Demon stew. Louisiana Tech 14, Arlington 10 — Bulldogs at home, period. Southwestern 7, Tampa 3 — USL still high after last week, also homecoming.

Southeastern Conference: LSU 17, Kentucky 13 — Screen shoots down 'Cats on one leg. Alabama 19, Tennessee 7 — Tide, despite Namath's absence. Georgia Tech 10, Auburn 0 — No Sidle, no points. Florida 24, South Carolina 7 — Why? Ask Ole Miss. Florida State 26, Georgia 7 — Peaches not in season. Ole Miss 36, Tulane 7 — Greenies come up with another fine losing effort. Mississippi State 10, Southern Mississippi 7 — one of best games around. Vanderbilt 20, George Washington 14 — George's axe just not what it used to be.

Southwest Conference: Texas 21, Arkansas 7 — Possible repeat of 1962 thriller (7-3), but Hogs not quite as strong. Texas Tech 21, Baylor 18 — Donny Anderson makes the difference, as usual. Rice 21, SMU 10 — Owls get in mood for Texas game next week. TCU 10, A&M 7 — Battle of the worsts.

Plus four: Army 22, Virginia 6 — Pepsodent boys roll for Paul. Ohio State 17, Southern Cal 10 — Four yards and a cloud of Trojans. Navy 19, California 14 — If Roger-dodger returns to scene. Notre Dame 24, UCLA 14 — Bidding for prestige of old.

IN LAKE CHARLES

Cowboy, Indian Fray Set Tonight

It's another Cowboy and Indian contest in Lake Charles Saturday night with both Northeast and McNeese hoping to square things in the Gulf States Conference standings.

Both teams are one down in conference records with the Indians falling to Northwestern and the Cowboys suffering from an opening defeat to Louisiana Tech.

McNeese, unbeaten GSC champ last year, opened this season by dropping a 10-6 decision to Louisiana Tech. Then the Cowboys edged Howard 7-6, and blanked Tampa, 12-0.

Northeast, rebuilding under Dixie White, will be looking for its first victory. The Indians lost, 7-6, to Delta State in its opener, fell before Northwestern, 27-6, in their initial league game, and lost a last-second decision to Howard last week, 20-17.

While the Indians have improved in every game, a victory over the 'Pokes would be an upset of major proportions. McNeese has a team considered only slightly weaker than the unbeaten 1963 club.

Three first line players who have been sidelined with injuries, fullback Merlin Walet, quarterback George Haffner and linebacker Gerald Conner, are expected to rejoin the McNeese team for this one and will boost Cowboy strength considerably.

Walet, starting right half last year, was the team's No. 1 fullback until his injury while Haffner, a Notre Dame transfer, is the team's best passer and Conner was a pre-season all GSC choice at center.

Halfback Charles Anastasio, all-conference and academic all-America last year, is the top Cowboy runner while Coach Les DeVall can call on three good quarterbacks in addition to Haffner — Richard Guillory, who will probably start, Dennis Trahan and Baron Thomas.

Northeast will go with the team that played about 75 per cent of the game against Howard last week, all of the defense and half the offense.

If Northeast starts the game on offense, the Indian lineup will be ends Charles Rohner and Wendell Drost, tackles Preston Hollier and Ronnie Sumter, guards Steve Hidalgo and Joe Bondurant, center Ricky Hammarstrom, quarterback Bookie Shillcutt, halfbacks R. F. Wilson and Alton Thomas and fullback Bobby Scafidel.

On defense, linebackers Nic LaBarbera and Wayne Armbrester will replace Hidalgo and Hammarstrom and Lynn Mitchell will come in for Shillcutt.

Shillcutt earned the starting nod at quarter with his aerial fireworks against Howard, driving the Indians 80 yards in six plays and 59 seconds. He'll be backed up by Johnny Garrison. Garrison is the better runner, Shillcutt the better passer.

Garrison has gained 173 yards on the ground and 52 passing while Shillcutt has 85 aerial yards and 24 on the ground.

Wilson trails Garrison in team rushing with 89 yards and a 5.9 average.

You Be Quarterback

Answer

No. 4. Throw quicker. This does not imply throwing frantically, without getting set. But chances are previous quarterback has held ball too long, missing instant patterns open. You may start with a short pass to build confidence, but problem is hitting the openings of patterns, not length of passes. You need successful forward passes to make screens work.

IN OLYMPIC GAMES FRIDAY

Three United States' Milers Qualify For Semi-Final Run

TOKYO (AP) — America's three metric milers — Dyrol Burleson, Tom O'Hara and young Jim Ryun, running well within themselves — easily qualified for the semifinals of the 1,500 meter run Friday and a couple of veteran weightmen added impetus to the United States' push for even more Olympic gold in the Tokyo Games.

Burleson and O'Hara each finished third in their 1,500-meter heats and Ryun took the fourth and last qualifying spot in his heat. All advance to semifinals.

Ryun, though finishing fourth behind winner Michel Bernard of France in his heat, had the fastest time of any American, 3 minutes, 44.4 seconds. By the arbitrary formula of adding 17 seconds to arrive at an equivalent time for the mile, that would give the 17-year-old Wichita, Kan., schoolboy 4:01.4, considerably off his best performance.

O'Hara, the little Chicago redhead with the peculiar running style, was timed in 3:46.7, just edging out New Zealand's Peter Snell. Snell, the favorite, finished fourth.

Burleson, the lean Oregonian who ranks as the top hope for the U. S. first victory in this prestigious race since 1908, also qualified in third position, with a time of 3:45.6.

World record holding weightmen Hal Connolly and Dallas Long also got the United States off to a solid start in the hammer throw and shot put.

Connolly, a 33-year-old teacher from Culver City, Calif., got off a throw of 221 feet, 1½ inches on his first throw of the qualifying round. It was an Olympic record, and Connolly promptly called it quits in the qualifications.

A few minutes later that Olympic mark was wiped out by Gyula Zsivotzky with a throw of 223 feet, three-quarters of an inch. Ed Burke, San Jose, Calif., and Al Hall, Greenfield, Mass., also made the final rounds with best throws of 213½ and 211 even, respectively.

And the United States' tanned teen-aged swimmers continued their fantastic domination of proceedings at the National Gymnasium with 17-year-old Ginny Duenkel of West Orange, N.J., smashing the Olympic record in the first heat of the women's 400-meter free style, winning in 4:48.6.

Punting Duel Expected At Tech Tonight

RUSTON (Special) — Two of the nation's best punters will be attractions here Saturday night when Louisiana Tech and Arlington State College tangle.

Both clubs will likely be jockeying for field position by extensive use of the punt. Al Smith of ASC is averaging 42.9 yards per kick and David Lee of Tech currently has dropped under 40 for the first time with a 39.8 average.

Tech is also certain to straighten out its punt protection, having had two boots blocked this season.

Tech's foe Saturday is much stronger than a year ago, having been aided by a number of transfers. Arlington basically uses a power attack featuring halfback and fullback jabs inside and outside tackle. They depend on a good defense and Smith's kicking to keep the pressure on opponents.

"They are tough" was the consensus of the Bulldog coaches after seeing films of their 14-0 loss to SMU and 7-7 standoff with Arkansas State. They like to control the ball and had it for 72 plays against Arkansas State last week.

Joe Aillet and his staff at Tech are pleased with the progress in drills this week. "We are hoping the club is about to reach its peak and there is evidence this is the case," Coach Aillet said.

YOU BE THE QUARTERBACK

By Jerry Burns

Head Coach, State University of Iowa

Score: Boston College 6, Cincinnati 6.

Situation: Boston College is on Cincinnati 39, first down and 10, start of fourth quarter.

You, the reserve Boston quarterback, know your predecessor has had fine protection, has set himself and looked the field over well before throwing, but has completed no passes in seven tries. If you feel you must throw to score, what should you do:

1. Throw only short passes until you get completion?
2. Fake forward passes and throw screens (passes behind scrimmage line to receiver behind wall of blockers)?
3. Take slightly longer time than previous quarterback?
4. Throw quicker than did previous quarterback?

MR. AND MRS. STEVE ARTHUR LINDSAY

Lindsay-Dean Nuptials Read In Fair Park Church

Fair Park Baptist church, Monroe was scene of the ceremony which united in marriage Miss Margaret Jane Dean and Steve Arthur Lindsay on Friday, October 2 at 7 p.m. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Henry O. Dean, 317 Shady Oaks Drive, and Mr. and Mrs. Willie L. Lindsay, 208 Moreland Drive, all of West Monroe.

Baskets of white gladioli and white tapers formed a setting at the altar where the double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Leland A. Langridge. Candles were lighted by Stanley DeWayne Thompson and Sandy Martin and a prenuptial concert was presented by Mrs. Dayton Guillot, organist and Alva Franks, soloist.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a floor length gown of white satin, styled with basque bodice and long sleeves tapered to points over the wrists. A pearl tiara held her veil of silk illusion and she carried a white Bible crested with a bouquet of white carnations centered with a removable white orchid corsage.

Miss Sherry Lott served as maid of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Rita Martin and Mill Ellen Stivers. They wore gowns of pink brocade with pink net headdresses and matching shoes. Their bouquets were of pink asters with matching ribbon. Flower girl was Tammy Stamie.

The father of the bridegroom attended his son as best man and groomsmen were Otis E. Dean, brother of the bride and Jerry L. Lindsay, brother of the groom.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Dean wore a suit of kelly green wool with hat of multicolored feathers and black accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a beige wool knit with avocado shoes and bag and feather hat. Both mothers wore corsages of white asters.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church social room. The bride's table was covered with a white taffeta cloth overlaid with white net, garlanded with smilax and clusters of stephanotis. A crystal prism bowl filled with white carnations and pompons, flanked by matching candelabra formed the central decor. Mrs. Dan Crawford served the wedding cake and presiding at the punch bowl was Mrs. Ellis T. Lott. Tea girls were Miss Darlene Skipper and Miss Rita Bolton. White pompons in a cherub container decorated the guest book table.

After a short wedding trip the couple is at home at 3702 White Ferry Road, West Monroe. For travel the bride wore a three piece suit of pink wool with pink hat and black kid accessories. Both are graduates of West Monroe high school and are students at Louisiana Business College.

DEAR ABBY

Time Will Sideline Husband In Sports

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a college instructor. He's wonderful in almost every respect, but he's a nut on sports. He's 27 and I'm 26. He was raised on a farm and his dad never let him go out for sports in school because farm chores came first. He's on two softball teams, and when he isn't playing, he practicing. When softball season is over, it's football. After football, it's basketball. (He plays golf in between, and he's good at everything.) He likes hockey, too. Don't tell me to find myself something to do. We have two boys. One is two years old and the other is three months. I try to be a good sport and go to watch my husband whenever he plays. I sat in the bleachers at a hockey game when I was a week overdue with my second, and chased my 18-month-old all over the gym.

Someone called my husband to be on a bowling team and I overheard him say, "My wife is unreasonable when it comes to sports!" I ask you . . . . WHO is unreasonable?

SPORTS WIDOW

DEAR SPORTS: Your husband! Be patient. Time will sideline him soon enough and then he'll learn you're the best sport he has.

DEAR ABBY: I was glad to see your apology for lambasting the clergyman for asking the bride if she were pregnant when she and her fiance came to him to discuss their marriage plans. This is a standard question now, and I am sure the clergyman meant no personal offense. If a priest learns that the only reason a couple is getting married is to give the child a name, he will recommend a civil ceremony rather than a religious one.

INFORMED

DEAR ABBY: You disappointed me when you "begged forgiveness" for criticizing the clergyman for asking the bride if she were pregnant.

If a clergyman had asked ME such a question in the presence of my fiance, my fiance would have asked him to take his collar off and step outside. When an innocent person is accused of shoplifting, and is subjected to the humiliation of a search, he has a case against the store, you know. I am not a thief, and no one has the right to ask me to prove that I didn't steal something. The principle is the same.

ST. LOUIS WOMAN

DEAR ABBY: A psychiatrist once told me that a man who beats his wife was probably beaten by his mother (or a female figure of authority) when he was a child. If more mothers knew this they wouldn't be so quick to hit their sons.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Dust Dirty Windows Before Using Liquid

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Gals:

I want to mention something that perhaps might surprise you, and is probably something you hadn't thought about:

BEFORE you wash a window that has not been washed in months, look at it (you only have to look through one side!) and see if it has an accumulation of dust on it BEFORE you put any kind of cleaning liquid on it.

If it does . . .

FIRST pick up an old cloth, whisk broom, brush . . . or a piece of crumpled, DRY newspaper . . . and wipe the window to remove most of the accumulated soil!

Here's what you are going to find:

Dust is dust . . . you can wipe most of it off and it will fall to the bottom of the window, thus eliminating a mud pile, such as you would have if you put liquid on it first. The liquid would mix with the dust and you would have a bigger mess to clean up!

If you wet a rag and then put any application on a dust-filled window (whether inside or outside) it's awful. Let's face it.

Wipe the DUST off FIRST, then proceed with whatever washing method you are using. Saves time, water and ENERGY!

Heloise

LETTER OF LAUGHTER:

Why don't they make a fizz can with nothing but air in it so we can blow all the dust away instead of polishing with rags, etc.?

Wondering

Dear Heloise:

When hanging clothes out on a cold day, wear a pair of rubber gloves over your winter cotton gloves. You will have no more cold hands.

If one just wore regular cotton gloves, the gloves would become damp and therefore one's hands would tend to become colder. However, by putting the cotton gloves on underneath the rubber gloves they are protected from dampness.

S.M.

Dear Heloise:

I have found two good methods for removing starch which sometimes accumulates on the bottom of my iron.

I either dip a damp sponge in baking soda and polish the bottom of my COLD iron, or I dip a dry washcloth in pure vinegar and wipe a barely warm iron. The I use a clean, damp cloth to wipe the iron.

KAY

Dear Heloise:

I use waxed paper sandwich bags for storing small amounts of leftover foods in the refrigerator.

One bag will hold three or four pieces of fried chicken or a plain boiled potato . . . or any reasonably dry vegetable.

I dislike washing dishes and fail to see why I should transfer leftovers from a vegetable dish to a refrigerator dish, which will have to be washed eventually, too.

Also the bags take up less room in the refrigerator.

Parish Officers Book Pair For Local Burglary

The men, identified as V. R. Simmons, 22, Alexandria, and Charles R. McClain, 21, 109 Ridgegrove Dr., West Monroe, were arrested on suspicion and later confessed to the burglary, Chief Deputy Frank Kirby said.

The crime was apparently committed between 12:35 a.m. Friday and 4 a.m. Friday. Authorities said 11 bottles of liquor and about one case of beer was taken from the bar, plus $10-$15 in change from a glass jar in the establishment.

The two men had been checked by a deputy about an hour before another officer on patrol discovered the burglary. After the incident was reported, the two were picked up and later booked for simple burglary.

LITTLE THEATRE

Farce Is Keynote In Season Opener

By JOHN CALE

Staff Critic

With new director Lonny Fraze putting his first Little Theatre production on the boards, the opening of the 1964-65 season at Strauss Playhouse promises to be a season of innovations.

To begin with, the opener, Norman Krasna's "Who Was That Lady I Saw You With?" is Little Theatre's first real farce in many a year. There have been mystery comedies, sophisticated comedies — even some like "Visit to a Small Planet" that weren't funny.

But this one is thoroughly unfiltered farce, in spots resembling some of the Peter Sellers movies, though no one fell into the fountain.

With due plaudits going to director Fraze and Chris West, who designed the colorful and highly functional sets, we'd also like to list the principal characters:

Lamar Mullican	as	David Williams
Arthur Griffith		Michael Haney
Sue Brooks		Ann Williams
Willoughby Thomas		Robert Doyle
Hugh Matthews		Harry Powell
Grace Michele		Gloria Coogle
Yvonne Allfree		Florence Coogle
John Goorley		Parker
V. P. Dalrymple		Orlov
Jay Michele		Belka

INTELLIGENCE

Back in the old silent film days, the jerky actions of the Keystone Cops produced many a laugh. Now we have matured to the point where it takes a combined shakeup in the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the Central Intelligence Agency to tickle our funnybones.

"Who Was That Lady" starts off with a wife catching her chemistry professor husband kissing a student in some sort of laboratory compromise, and she threatens divorce. He seeks the help of his bachelor chum, a TV script writer, who suggests he try to lie his way out by posing as an FBI agent.

Up to this point, the drama is pretty mellow, and we frankly feared the return of vaudeville. But writer Krasna came through from about the fourth scene on with some clever "double talk" lines that caused the opening night audience to do many a "double think."

This sort of thing demands good theatrical timing and Sue Brooks, the proud wife of the professor, excelled in this respect. Little Theatre veterans Lamar Mullican and Arthur Griffith also carried this sort of thing out well as a team with the exception of the opening laboratory scene. For some reason, we never could convince ourselves that the professor was really too worried about kissing that student.

HIGHLIGHT

In every respect, the scene that rang the gong was the get-together in the Chinese restaurant. The Coogle sisters (we understand one is the mother of four and the other a Sunday school teacher) really scorched the chopsticks, and the set makers created a fine piece of portable environment. Just what took place in the action of the play here was not clear, although it brought the fakes, the feds and the foreigners onto collision course with the professor's wife.

Musical comedy experience from "My Fair Lady" proved of value to Dr. John Goorley, who took the part of a Central Intelligence agent in this production. He played un-musical but revealing tapes of bugged phone conversations for the FBI officials, Hugh Matthews and Willoughby Thomas. For some unknown reason, these unlikely parts seemed to fit these fellows quite well, especially Goorley and Matthews, who have tried out for quite a few in the past.

Some "iron curtain" intrigue from V. P. Dalrymple and Jay Michele brought the action to the final scene in the basement of the Empire State Building, where the surroundings looked for the world like Rube Goldberg turned loose.

Generally, "Who Was That Lady I Saw You With?" is an enjoyable piece of farce and good fare for any age. The staging is especially well worked out so as not to interfere with the flow of action. With the knots smoothed out of the early scenes, we feel it will develop into a top-flight piece of light comedy.

Natchez Airport Funds Allotted

WASHINGTON (Speical) — The Federal Aviation Agency has allocated $27,000 for improvements at the Natchez Hardy-Anders airport, it was announced Friday.

Allocations announced for Louisiana totaled $298,850, including Baton Rouge $104,225, Eunice $47,125, Lafayette $80,000 and Thibodaux $67,500.

The money reserved for each project is tentative, until a grant is approved, and to be obtained must be matched by money at the local or state level, generally on a 50-50 basis.

Expert Reports About Needs At Angola Prison

Louisiana State Prison at Angola is "critically in need of corrective action," a noted expert has told Gov. John McKeithen in a special report seen here Friday.

Dr. Austin H. MacCormick, executive director of Osborne Association Inc., a non-profit prison study organization, inspected the prison.

"The present situation at the Louisiana Penitentiary, however is so critically in need of corrective action that anything short of complete candor would be indefensible," he said. "The institution has been going rapidly down-hill in recnnt years, particularly since 1962, when an unjustifiable cut of a million dollars was made in the appropriations for the Department of Institutions, most of it in the funds for the penitentiary's operation."

Dr. MacCormick noted the folllowing points:

1. The budget cut struck a crippling blow at the prison's rehabilitation, farm production — everything.
2. A loss of funds made it necessary to cut off 94 employes, putting guns back into the hands of prisoners who had been replaced as guards by correctional officers during the 1950's.

Battery Counts Top City Court Session Docket

Battery counts dominated a session of Monroe Municipal Court Friday with Judge W. M. Harper handling seven counts on the charge.

Willie Miller, 57, 1400 Adam St., was fined $30 for simple battery with six other counts either discharged or nolle prossed.

Counts nolle prossed were against Ambrose Heckard, 63, 411 S. 9th St., use of a dangerous weapon; and William Main Jr., 34, 2022 Adam St., simple battery.

Counts discharged were against Willie Davenport, 57, 112½ Hipps Marx Alley, simple battery; Bonnie Gibson, battery with dangerous weapon; George Clerk, 50, 117 S. 7th St., attempted battery, and Edward Sturgis, 47, 903 Hoods Alley, attempted battery.

Isaac Wilson, 54, was fined $425 for driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages, with Charlie Allen, 37, 313 Holly St., forfeiting $425 bond on the charge.

Three theft counts were handled with Lim Wade Holland paying a $100 fine on the charge and counts nolle prossed against Joe Curtis and Homer Lee Hofler. The address of Willie Lee Thomas, 18, who appeared in Monroe Court Monday, is 409 N. 26th St. He is not the Willie Lee Thomas of 920 Beverly St., as was reported earlier.

Fined for reckless driving were Matilda Johnson, 412 N. 24th St., $30; Gerald Paul Guillot, 20, 158 Bon Aire Hall, NLSC, $30, and Randolph Johnson, 28, 207 N. 21st St., $30 bond forfeiture. Reckless driving charges against Odell S. Outley, 42, 1007 N. 7th St., were nolle prossed with the charges against Ina Laird, 49, 817 N. 24th St., and Hosea Atkins, 33, F38-F Foster Homes, discharged.

Forfeiting bonds on speeding counts were Ronnie Woodard, Start, $5; Alberta E. Williams, 39, 2200 Olive St., $10; Willis L. Wilson, 29, 908 S. 8th St., $5; Ozie E. Reddick, 21, 102 Phillips St., $10; and George Bershen, 2507 Pargoud Blvd., $10.

STATE AMENDMENTS

Exemption Plan To Be On Ballot

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fifth in a series of articles on the 41 constitutional amendments that will be on the November 3rd ballot. Today's article deals with amendments 14 through 17.)

By SAM HANNA

Political Editor

A proposed extension for veterans' homestead exemption plus increased power for the justice of the peace are included in 41 constitutional amendments for the November 3rd general election.

Amendment No. 14 would extend through 1969 the time for veterans of World War II and the Korean conflict to apply for veterans' homestead exemptions and to make veterans of World War I eligible for the exemption.

It's possible that under this amendment veterans' homestead exemption might increase to $7,000.

The proposal contains a provision that "this exemption shall be in addition to all other exemptions granted with respect to the property of such veteran."

This could mean that beginning in 1965 eligible veterans would be granted a $5,000 - per-year exemption for five years in addition to the $2,000 homestead exemption now allowed all homeowners.

There are about 33,000 World War I veterans presently residing in Louisiana, many of whom are homeowners and would be eligible to receive the additional five-year exemption for the first time.

Meantime, Amendment No. 15 would simply make Plaquemines Parish a new judicial district with one judge. At present the 25th judicial district is composed of St. Bernard and Plaquemines with two judges plus a juvenile judge for St. Bernard.

Plaquemines would become a district.

Judge W. M. Harper of Monroe has spoke out against Amendment No. 16, which would increase the jurisdiction that the justice of the peace courts have in civil matters from $100 to $300.

Judge Harper said, "By increasing the civil jurisdiction of the JPs to $300 would ipso facto constitute these inferior courts as courts of records which would involve a knowledge of the articles of procedure in the Code of Civil Procedure that the JPs do not possess."

He pointed out that if the amendment passed the JPs would have to obtain court reporter facilities in order to take down and transcribe testimony in cases in excess of $100.

"Adoption of this proposal would require an overhauling of the present Code of Civil Procedure to take care of the increased jurisdiction for reason that all references in the present code dealing with JPs are confined to the oral or $100 jurisdiction, wherein appeals are to the District Court whereas in cases beyond $100 the appeals go to to the Court of Appeals," Judge Harper said.

He added, "Actually, there is no statewide need for this proposal, and I believe I am safe in saying that not one JP in 50 over the state would want this added jurisdiction."

Finally, Amendment No. 17 would add a judge to the 21st judicial district composed of Livingston, St. Helena and Tangipahoa. He would be required to come from Livingston Parish.

Rights Workers To Help 'Polling' In Mississippi

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Civil rights organizations said Friday a vanguard of 150 volunteer workers will arrive in Jackson Sunday to help in a statewide "freedom" election.

The Council of Federated Organizations said the statewide mock election will be staged Oct. 30 - Nov. 2, the four days preceeding the general election regular balloting.

About 50 out of state volunteers will arrive Sunday with the remainder due the next weekend. All will be briefed in orientation sessions in Jackson prior to scattering across the state to set up the protest election machinery.

Lawrence Guyot, state Freedom Democratic Party chairman, said the freedom vote is being held to "protest discriminatory voting registration practices in Mississippi, which keep 93 per cent of Negroes of voting age off the rolls." He also said it was being conducted "to give voters a chance to cast votes for members of the Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party, who were barred from a place on the ballot by the State Election Commission."

"This is a protest vote. We want all Mississippi whites and Negroes to be able to cast their ballots. We want them to be able to have a real choice," Guyot said.

COFO said the results of the freedom vote will be considered in a possible court attack on the election system in Mississippi and to challenge seniority of Mississippi congressmen, elected from a state which denies a group the right to vote.

COFO said anyone who is a resident of Mississippi and 21 years and older can vote. The ballot will include candidates of the two major parties for president and vice president. It will also list the congressional candidates from Mississippi.

Representing the Mississippi Freedom Democratic party will be Aaron Henry of Clarksdale, running against Sen. John Stennis; Mrs. Fannie Lou Hamer, Second District; Mrs. Annie Devine of Canton, Fourth District; Mrs. Victoria Gray of Hattiesburg, the Fifth District.

Southern Baptist Head To Speak To Area Meeting

JONESVILLE (Special) —Dr. Wayne Dehoney, president of the Southern Baptist Convention and pastor of the First Baptist Church, Jackson, Tenn., will address the annual meeting of the Ouachita Baptist Association at 8 p.m. Monday in a long distance telephone hookup.

The Ouachita association will be in session at the First Baptist Church, Jonesville, with messengers and visitors from 28 churches of the association in attendance.

The meeting will get underway at 7 p.m. with Dr. Dehoney's address scheduled from 8 to 8:30 p.m.

Following the address by Dr. Dehoney, Dr. John Havalik, secretary of Evangelism of Louisiana Baptist Convention will speak to the group on the general work of the convention.

The second session of the associational meeting will be held with the New Ouachita Baptist Church, Enterprise, on Tuesday, beginning at 6:30 p.m.

Reports of all organizations sponsored by the various churches in the association will be given at the second session from the local standpoint.

The annual associational sermon will be delivered by the Rev. Wallace P. Lee, pastor of the Evangeline Baptist Church of Wildsville.

Red Army Officers Prefer More Guns, Less Bread And Missiles

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet military leaders, increasingly critical of some of Nikita S. Khrushchev's policies, may have influenced his downfall, U.S. officals said Friday.

Pentagon experts noted that indications of disagreement have been appearing in Soviet military publications for some time.

Although couched in roundabout language, the meaning of these articles has come through to U.S. authorities familiar with the ways the Russians express their ideas publicly.

The main differences between the Soviet marshals and Khrushchev reportedly involved:

—The military budget. Khrushchev had proclaimed a goal of more bread and fewer guns.

— Strategy. Khrushchev stressed missiles and other nuclear weaponry. The marshals felt conventional weapons and forces were in danger of being slighted.

Prime Minister Formulates Delicate Cabinet Balance Amid Party Rivalry

LONDON (AP) — Harold Wilson, the new Laborite prime minister, Friday night named Patrick Gordon Walker as Britain's new foreign secretary despite Walker's defeat in the election Thursday.

Gordon Walker succeeds R.A. Butler, a Conservative stalwart, in the top Cabinet post under the prime minister.

The first six men Wilson chose for his Cabinet reflected a tactful balance among the Labor party's various factions in an apparent effort to achieve unity in a government that holds power by a perilously thin margin.

Wilson's speedy appointment of Gordon Walker, 57, a former Oxford history tutor, was taken as a sharp condemnation of the entry of the racial issue in British politics. He is an orthodox Socialist with moderate views.

Laborites contended that the Conservative candidate, Peter Griffiths, 36, a history teacher, won in the Birmingham district of Smethwick by playing on voter alarm over an influx of nonwhite Commonwealth immigrants into the industrial area.

Wilson called the district election "a disgrace to British public life." But Griffiths denied using the racial issue, saying, "If anyone did so, it was the Labor candidate."

ACTIVE TRADING

Market Advances To Month's Best

NEW YORK (AP) — The Stock market Friday took in stride news that Red China had exploded its first atom bomb and stocks made their best advance in a month. Trading was active.

Wall Street, jittery Thursday because of the Russian leadership change, the British election and the Walter Jenkins case, managed to throw these news items into perspective.

The list rose almost from the start. A promising rally seemed threatened late in the morning when the news came about China's atom bomb. The advance faltered. Steels wavered, U.S. Steel converting a gain into a fractional loss. But no wave of nervous selling developed.

Prices remained well ahead and added to their gains as the session wore on, closing at their peak of the day.

The Dow Jones industrial average advanced 5.10 to 873.54.

The atom bomb news came as no great surprise because reports have been saying that Red China had developed one. At the same time, Red China said it wants all nations to agree to shun such weapons but added it would develop its own stockpile.

Meanwhile, news of the leadership succession in Russia seemed to carry no immediate threat to the west and the narrowness of the Labor Party victory in Britain watered down the prospects of any drastic changes of policy in that country.

The turnabout in prices continued as investors—large and small — eagerly picked up stock at prices which seemed advantageous in view of the month-to-month uptrend.

Wall Street's news backdrop also included the fact that industrial production remained steady in September, despite the General Motors strike, and that a panel of economists predicted further business expansion in 1955.

Of 1,350 issues tradded, 831 rose and 280 fell. New highs for the year totaled 57 and new lows 8.

Volume was 5.16 million shares.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 2.3 to 328.4 with industrials up 2.5, rails up 2.0 and utilities up 1.3 to high for the year.

Grain Market Enjoys Mixed, Steady Session

CHICAGO (AP) — Grain futures were mostly steady on the Board of Trade.

Near the close of trading wheat was fractionally ahead for the session and soybeans traded in a narrow range on both sides of the market. Corn was mixed.

Hedge selling continued in both soybeans and corn as weather for harvesting remains favorable. Early gains in wheat futures were credited to commission house buying.

During the event, which will run through Saturday and Sunday of this weekend and Saturday and Sunday of the following weekend, eight new homes in the Twin Cities area, and one in Ruston will be open for public inspection.

These homes with the latest in design and facilities, are the entries of six builders, all members of the Northeast Louisiana Association of Home Builders, sponsors of the show.

The opening event in the parade will be the ribbon cutting ceremony 1:30 p.m. Saturday at 2707 Indian Mound Blvd., with local dignitaries taking part.

SCHEDULE

During the two weekends of the Parade of Homes, houses will be open for inspection during the hours of 2 p.m. to 6 p.m.

The houses in the parade, all of brick or brick and wooden siding combination, are in the $9,000 to $30,000 price range, and range from three to four bedrooms.

Most of the houses are centrally air conditioned and heatsed. Many of them feature separate dens and wood burning fireplaces.

They also feature the latest in kitchen equipment, with most of them having some carpeting, and others having carpeting throughout the house.

NEW HIGH

Builders say there never has been a time when manufacturers of building materials and products were as enthusiastic about research as now.

Traditionally, the structures shown in the annual Parade of Homes represent the latest developments in home building in the area. In the past parade homes here have attracted widespread attention, and some have been written about in national building trade journals.

BAROMETER

One spokesman for the Parade of Homes said the event will serve as a barometer on homebuilding for area residents.

"The public can expect a representative display of the type of building that is going on in the Twin Cities area," he said. "Although building conditions are stricter and tighter, this parade reflects the optimism that the Northeast Louisiana Association of Home Builders has in the growth and expansion in the area."

Visitors to the homes will find plan books available. The books contain architectural renderings and floor plans of all houses in the parade, and information about the builders.

REPRESENTATIVES

Representatives of the builders will be on hand to explain various features of the houses to visitors and to answer questions.

Chairman of the Parade of Home Committee is Loyd Fox; Jim Bradford is co - chairman, and Tommy Bond, a member. Home Builders Association officers are Bernon Butler, first vice president and acting president; Frank Eason, second vice president; W. G. Robinson, associate vice president; Tommy Bond, secretary, and Joe Ledoux, treasurer.

Home builders taking part in the parade include: Bradford Built Homes; Butler Real Estate and Construction; Carson Homes, Loyd Fox, builder; Mid - South Homes; P. G. Zuber and sons, and Monroe Custom Builders.

Ideas Presented On Selecting Home Builder

If you're decided to buy or build a new home, your first concern should be to select a reputable builder.

You may be acquainted with one personally, or know of his work through observation or recommendations. If not, you still should have no difficulty. The vast majority of home builders will give you honest value and willing cooperation.

BERNON W. BUTLER of Butler Real Estate and Construction Co., Highway 80, West Monroe, has been in building business for about 19 years. He is married and has three children. His residence is at 1512 Woodland St., West Monroe. He is a member of the West Monroe Chamber of Commerce, Masonic Lodge No. 419 F. and A.M., Highland Presbyterian Church in West Monroe, and is a director of the Northeast Louisiana Association of Home Builders.

New Products, New Methods Hold Down Cost

Research in the housing industry is aimed at the development of new building products and procedures that will help the builder construct a better home at lower cost.

New techniques already perfected through research and experimentation are largely responsible for the fact that house prices have remained remarkable stable in the last five years, bucking the trend of generally rising prices. The median sale price of a home in 1957 was $15,000. A survey of the Builders' Economic Council of the Builders predicted that the median - priced home this year — six years later — would be $15,800.

STRUCTURAL FORM

The structural form of the home as we know it today has evolved from the logical use of available building materials and techniques. As a result, the home buying public has become accustomed to the basic rectangular shape and, usually, a sloping roof.

"We Put The SURE In Insurance"

THIS IS THE FAMILY portion of the kitchen-family room in the P. G. Zuber and Sons home in the Parade of Homes at 503 Island Drive, Zuber's Highland Park Subdivision, West Monroe.

JOE LEDOUX of Monroe Custom Builders, Inc., Route 4, Box 175, Sterlington Road, Monroe, has been in the home building business for 5½ years. His organization handled development work in Town and Country Subdivision and North Park Village Subdivision. He is married, has two children and resides on Oakwood Drive in Town and Country Subdivision. Affiliations include Catholic Church, Junior Chamber of Commerce and Northest Louisiana Association of Home Builders.

Techniques In Softening Sound Trend

The newest development in home building is sound conditioning. Most new homes this year have some form of soundproofing. It may be in the construction, in the ceilings, the windows, the doors, the walls or the floors. How much sound conditioning is used depends on the price bracket of the home, for the new feature adds to the construction cost.

Public response to noise control has been immediate and hearty, for most families want a quiet home.

A Dallas, Texas firm was a pioneer in sound control. It built a research house in 1962 to see if it would be technically feasible to sound condition a residential structure and to determine the cost and the public interest. It has since built sound conditioned homes.

RESPONSE

E. L. Krodel, research director for the firm, cited this letter from a home buyer as an example of the public response:

"The total effect of your sound conditioning efforts is excellent. We are highly pleased. The floor plan is most efficient in insulating the master bedroom from the rest of the house. We have three small children and would probably be headed for a mental institution if it weren't for the sound conditioning."

The firm, a member of the National Association of Home Builders, recently sent a questionnaire to its "quiet house" buyers to determine their reaction to sound conditioning after an occupancy of three to four months.

RESULTS

"The results of this questionnaire were gratifying in that the majority of the people felt that this was a much needed feature in today's homes," Krodel reported.

He was among the speakers at a special program on sound control at the recent Convention-Exposition of the NAHB in Chicago.

P. G. ZUBER AND SONS

Medallion Home 'Living At Finest'

"An architectural beauty for living at its finest," is the description given on the Medallion home constructed by P. G. Zuber and Sons for entry in the Parade of Homes.

It is located at 503 Island Drive in Zuber's Highland Park Subdivision, West Monroe.

CONVENIENCE

Designed for modern style and convenience it has 2,044 square feet of living area, three bedrooms, with carpeting in the master bedroom, two full ceramic tile baths. There are showers over tubs, sliding glass doors, and full length mirror over dressing tables.

There are carpeted living room and dining room.

The kitchen-family room has quarry tile floors. The kitchen is complete with all built-ins. The family room has built-in gun cabinet with glass sliding doors, built-in bookcase with sliding glass doors, built-in china cabinet with sliding glass doors, and a fireplace. Both areas are paneled.

The house, walls and ceilings are well insulated, and there is central heating and air conditioning.

OTHER FEATURES

Other features are large storage facilities and a laundry room. The landscaped lot is 100 by 150 feet, and is planted to winter grass. The streets are curbed and guttered.

The builders describe the neighborhood in which the house is located as "a refined atmosphere . . . convenient to everything."

The lot on which house is located is spacious, offering a good view.

New Planning Era Seen By Home Builders

You haven't seen anything yet in the growing program of new and economical practices of land development.

Five years past its inception, NAHB's Land Use Research program is just now reaching a point where state and local impact will be greatest.

LOCATED IN A BEAUTIFUL setting is this Parade of Homes house built by Butler Real Estate and Construction Company at 102 Pineway Drive, Norris Pinecrest Subdivision, West Monroe. It is a three-bedroom colonial type.

BUTLER REAL ESTATE

Location Called 'Nature Blessed'

A colonial brick in a "nature blessed location," will be shown by Butler Real Estate and Construction Company, in the Parade of Homes.

Located at 102 Pineway Drive, Norris Pinecrest Subdivission, West Monroe, it is in a picturesque setting on high, well drained land, where there are many beautiful trees.

The builder describes this as a restricted area where pride of ownership is evident, and home values are stable.

BONUS

An additional bonus of the location is that it is convenient to schools, churches, and shopping areas.

The brick, which has beautiful interior design, is of quality materials and construction. From the foyer, Parade of Homes visitors will enter the extra large living room, and go from there to the ash paneled kitchen - family room with built - in oven and range, and eat - on snack bar.

Double sliding glass doors lead to the patio.

LARGE BEDROOMS

There are three large bedrooms with bi - fold closet doors, and two full ceramic tile baths, one of them with a dressing table.

The house is centrally heated and air conditioned for year around weather control. There is a double carport and ample storage.

There will be representatives of the builder on hand during the Parade of Homes to explain features of the house to visitors and answer questions.

Planbooks also will be available to visitors, showing various details and features of the house.

Major Changes In Housing Are Pointed Out

Wartime housing controls were lifted in 1947. The nation was faced with an acute shortage of homes, at a time when home ownership seemed wonderfully desirable to many millions weary of war's dislocations.

Homes sold as fast as they could be built, and they were built at an unprecedented rate. In 1947 housing construction passed the million mark for the first time.

Sixteen years later new homes are just as popular, and the Parade of Homes is a nationwide observance. But how the homes have changed!

Wood Should Have Firm 'Nail Grip'

While most Americans have, on some occasion, driven nails into lumber, we often fail to consider the other side of the coin — the ability of the lumber to grip nails firmly and lastingly.

Nail-holding power is an obscure but all important indicator as to the quality of lumber. It greatly affects the performance of decorative items, such as interior paneling and exterior siding, as well as structural material.

DECISIVE

Various elements of security and livability are also at stake, the Southern Pine Association says. The safety and permanence of the average dwelling hinge on the nail - holding strength of lumber that holds it together. The same factor determines the tightness of the home, the stability and endurance of surfacing materials, and to a large extent, the efficiency and cost of hearing and cooling systems.

While nail-holding power may seem less important in the case of siding, paneling and trim than with structural lumber, it is nonetheless a decisive factor in their performance.

SAYS BUILDER

Best Consumer Buy New Home

By WILLIAM BLACKFIELD
NAHB President

A new home is a consumer's best buy. The house itself is an excellent product — the best made house in the world.

Today's home buyer gets more house for his money. He gets more bathrooms, more bedrooms, more storage space and more conveniences. His home is better designed. It is built for better living.

Buy in buying a home, the consumer gets more than a place in which to live, fine though it is. He gets greater financial stability and security. More people started on the road to financial independence through owning their own home than in any other way.

PAYMENTS STABLE

Mortgage payments on a home are stable. Rents may rise, but payments remain the same. The home buyer can plan intelligently for the family's needs for years ahead, instead of on a month - to - month basis. With every payment, the home buyer increases his equity in his investment.

How big a house a consumer buys depends, naturally, on his income and his needs. But government studies reveal that new homes over the last 10 years or so have tended to offer more in floor space.

In 1950, the average new home with an FHA-insured mortgage had 894 square feet of floor space. By 1962, this floor space had increased to 1,162 square feet. This was an increase of 268 square feet — more than enough for, say, an extra room 18 x 14 feet.

The median house constructed by members of the Builders' Economic Council of the National Association of Home Builders has 1,206 square feet of floor space.

HOUSE COSTS

House costs, of course, have risen along with everything else in the last 10 to 15 years, though less than most items. The major factor in the increase has been the sharp rise in the cost of land. Builders have absorbed a good portion of this higher land cost through economies resulting from more efficient construction.

Studies disclose that a 1961 FHA house identical in size with one built in 1952 would cost an additional $471 — not counting the land costs. But the price of land for that house jumped by $1,367 in that decade.

LAND PRICES

There is little prospect that land costs will decline. The nation's population is growing at the rate of three million a year. In another six years, we will be a country of 215 million. By 1980, the population is expected to be 260 million.

Almost all the future growth of the United States will take place in the urban areas. Within a few years, about 85 per cent of the population will be living in urban or metropolitan centers.

To provide homes for this rapidly growing population, we will both have to build further and further out in the suburbs, and make economical use of land in and close to the city. And we will need new approaches to building a community, to preserve open green areas and prevent land waste.

Considering the land situation, it is no wonder that the same answer is often given to the question, "When is the best time to buy a home?" That answer: "Last year — five years ago — 10 years ago — Now."

RESEARCH

The research bandwagon is really rolling . . . hunting ways to improve American homes.

Riding the bandwagon are a large number of national manufacturers interested in developing modern new products for the home building market. Many have served this market for years but want to improve their products through research. Others are new to this growing market.

REPORTS INDICATE

Fireplaces Get Housewives' Vote

Rare is the housewife who would turn down a fireplace.

Said one, "I have a fireplace in my dining room. I would like to have one in my living room, also. I'd like to have one in my master bedroom, but I'm just fireplace crazy."

Somehow, a fireplace makes a home more homelike to many people. An open fire on a cold winter day is a thing of beauty, warming to hands and heart. Even in summer, bright flowers in a fireplace can add life to a room.

CONSIDERATIONS

Of course, there are practical considerations. Some climates just don't call for a fireplace. Some people prefer not to maintain them. They are a budget "extra," too, in these days of modern central heating.

Yet, many families would rather do without something else than do without a fireplace. It's hard to blame them.

In the days when fireplaces filled the utilitarian functions of heating and cooking, nearly every room had one. Many homes today have a fireplace, but usually just one. Most often it will be found in the living room, family room, kitchen or dining room.

DREAM OF MANY

Those of you who have a fireplace in the master bedroom may be assured that your situation is the dream of many.

The typical location is the center of a fairly long wall, which will lend itself to balance on either side, such as built - in bookcases. There's nothing wrong with a well-chosen off - center location, either, especially in a modernistic home or with informal decoration. Fireplaces in spur walls and in corners are possibilities. The free-standing fireplace is used to good effect in comtemporary homes and vacation cabins.

POPULAR STYLES

Another popular contemporary style is the raised fireplace with a seat-high ledge running the length of the wall. Many contemporary fireplaces do not have mantels. The variations in design and placement are seemingly endless. That's why it is a good idea to plan closely with your builder, who has the advantage of experience in planning fireplace location, size and character in keeping with the style of home.

Your fireplace should be built to the size and scale of the room and its furnishings. Some people dream of putting in "a great big fireplace" without stopping to think what this entails. Colonial fireplaces were large because their primary function was to heat homes that were not well insulated in the first place. Big logs were plentiful.

The blazing fire of a big fireplace would be over-powering in most modern rooms, aside from the difficulty of maintaining it. It's no a good idea to put a small fire in a big fireplace, either; it doesn't look good and it burns poorly.

LARRY M. COOPER, with Mid-South Homes, has been in the home building business for about six years. He is married and has two children. His new residence will be in Jamar Heights of Monroe. He is a member of the Northeast Louisiana Association of Home Builders.

A HOME ON BAYOU DeSiard, at 14 Fortune Drive, Treasure Island, entered by Mid-South Homes in the Parade of Homes, is shown here. The builder describes it as a place for gracious living.

MID-SOUTH HOMES

Two Beautiful Homes Offered

Two beautiful houses are being offered in the Parade of Homes by Mid-South Homes.

They are at 14 Fortune Drive, Treasure Island, located on Bayou DeSiard, and 14 Oregon Trail, East Parkview Subdivision.

The house on Fortune drive is described as being one of beautiful design, offering the setting for gracious living.

It has a broken quarry tile entrance, and a kitchen with built-in range and oven, dishwasher, disposal, and maple cabinets. There is a carpeted formal dining area and living room, a beautiful birch paneled family room with wood-burning fireplace that will afford many hours of enjoyment and relaxation.

There are three oversize bedrooms which have an abundance of closet space and are uniquely located for complete privacy from the rest of the home.

The house on Oregon Trail is conveniently located to many facilities. It is close to churches, only a block from school, and the subdivision is one described as one of the finest on the southside of Monroe.

This well designed home offers such exceptional features as built-in range and oven, double stainless steel sink with spray, a unique recessed ceiling, a large family room, and three spacious bedrooms.

Representatives of the builders will be on hand at both locations to describe features of the homes to visitors and answer questions about them. Plan books also will be available to visitors showing pertinent details concerning the homes.

COOPERATED

Some 40 manufacturers cooperated in the building of NAHB's 1963 Experimental House, constructed to test new methods, products and materials. The house at Rockville, Md., near Washington, D. C., is the fifth experimental residence constructed by the NAHB.

FINDING BUILDER

A highly effective way to determine the builder you want is to call the office of home builders association. They will tell you if the builder you have in mind is a member of the association, or give you names of builders who are.

P. G. ZUBER of P. G. Zuber and Sons, has been in the home building business for about 17 years in the Twin Cities area. He is married and has eight children. Two sons, George and Joe, are affilated with him in the business, for which he maintains an office at his home, 307 McGuire St., West Monroe. He is a member of the Baptist Church and the Northeast Louisiana Association of Home Builders.

Comparison Suggested

Good design, like beauty, is in the eye of the beholder. What design might suit one family in a home would not be practical at all for another. Fortunately, the choice of designs today is very wide.

The major functions of a house must be considered in any design — the living area or family room, the sleeping area or bedrooms and baths, and the work area or kitchen and related space. Efficient circulation between these areas, without wasting space, must be planned.

A handy way to compare homes in their allowances for living, sleeping and work areas is to draw a simple floor plan, then shade in the area you are comparing. The space and its arrangement thus stand out sharply.

Land Plans Techniques Gain

By JOSEPH SINGER

(Chairman, Land Use Committee, National Association of Home Builders)

The acceptance of new land development and community planning techniques over the past few years by builders, developers, planners and community officials has been impressive.

Three or four years ago one was likely to draw a blank stare if such terms as "planned unit development," "density zoning," and "clustering" were mentioned in a conversation about community development. Today, such expressions are heard on all sides, in newspapers, magazines, trade publications, and among professionals and laymen alike.

GROUND BROKEN

Ground has been broken, homes and related facilities have been built, and more are entering the construction pipeline every day. More environments are based on a total community concept, including ample open space, well planned circulation, and living units fitted both to the terrain and the needs of the market.

Let's define our terms. A "planned unit development" is any type of large-scale development planned under a zoning provision in which the usual requirements of minimum lot size are set aside, allowing much more flexibility in layout and design. Such a development usually will include single and multifamily homes, in a variety of combinations. Much of the tract is usually given to open space and recreational facilities. Commercial and industrial activities may also be included.

"Density zoning," sometimes known as "open space zoning" is based on density of occupancy for an area rather than on lot sizes. The determination of density should be based on transportation, accessibility, sewer and water facilities, etc.

Within the established density figure, the developers are then free to build the types of units they think prospective residents will like best. They may group these units in a variety of patterns, different from the normal uniform gridiron or curvilinear street plan.

In so grouping, developers frequently turn to "clustering" homes around short cul-de-sac streets. Several such clusters may be grouped together, leaving significant areas of open space between cluster groups.

BRADFORD BUILT HOMES

Styling Of Home Is Contemporary

The entry of Bradford Built Homes in the Parade (f Homes in the Twin Cities, is contemporary in style.

Located at 2707 Indian Mound Blvd., off of Loop Road, the brick house has 2,600 square feet of living area.

Builder Jim Bradford said there are four bedrooms, carpeted, in the dimensions of 16 by 14 feet, 15 by 12 feet, 12 by 12 feet, and 12 by 12 feet. There are three full baths in the house, two of them with dressing area.

LIVING ROOM

The living room is 16 by 14 feet and there is a separate 13 by 12 feet dining room which is carpeted.

The foyer, with double door entrance, is spacious, measuring 10 by 7 feet. The den, 24 by 16 feet is paneled, and there are such features as a wood-burning fireplace, bookcase, cabinets, intercom and radio system.

The kitchen is spacious, measuring 19 by 12 feet, and there is a separate breakfast area which is 12 by 8 feet.

The all electric G. E. appliances include double oven, burner tops, dishwasher and disposal.

UTILITY ROOM

The utility room has separate pantry, closet, and there are cabinets over the washer-dryer space.

The house is fully insulated, has acoustical ceiling throughout, and has air conditioning.

There is a cedar lined closet. The foyer, den, kitchen, breakfast area and utility areas have quarry tile. Along with the carport there are outside storage facilities. In addition to this, there is a large patio.

House Of Future Is Described By An Expert

No one can draw an exact blueprint of the house of the future. However, today's research and market studies foretell many of the characteristics of the home of, say, 20 years from now.

There will be an even greater emphasis on opening the interior of the 1984 home to the outdoors than there is today. Interior planning of the home will provide for a certain openness and flexibility in the use of space.

Interior walls will be movable or will double as storage areas. They will be designed to restrict sound passage where desirable. Walls will include basic furniture such as counters, shelves and chests. Gradually, the need for certain of our free-standing furniture will be reduced.

The planning and construction of future houses will enable their owners to add rooms without extensive alterations.

APPLICATION

Practical applications in financing, land planning, design and many other factors involved in home construction come to the NAHB member builder throughout the year Many seminars and clinics are held.

House Building Pace Speeded By New Methods

Time was when a house was built brick by brick, stick by stick, and by a man with a handful of nails in his pocket . . . and maybe one or two nails held in his teeth.

But home building, like many other things, has changed vastly in recent years. It has taken enormous strides. It has become more efficient. It has adopted industrial engineering methods. "Wonder" tools are used.

Living Room, Elegant And Functional

There was a day when the living room was the parlor, and that was that. It was pretty much off limits to the family, and was used to receive, impress and entertain guests.

Today, the living room in general has a case of split personality. If the home has a family room, then the living room may retain much of its formal air, although with more warmth and graciousness than the stiff parlor of yesteryear.

If a family room is lacking, the living room may be no stranger to children playing and reading. It may be large enough to include a dining area, although firm opinions are held on the presence or absence of a separate dining room.

TREND

If any general trend might be discerned, it would be toward the smaller, formal living room with foyer, and family room combined with a dining area. Actually, of course, it's up to the family who will live in the home. The range of living room design is more varied than ever before.

Many women feel like the housewife who said, "I'd like to vote for a formal living room and use the recreation room for informal living, which we do most of the time. I like that better, because then the living room is always up to snuff and anybody can walk in.

A recent survey by the National Association of Home Builders has shown that a smaller group of women feel the other way — that children, teenagers and informality should prevail. Both groups seek a design that will allow for rearranging the furniture from time to time. And everybody wants an entry hall.

Most likely, the major activity in your living room will be conversation. You should be able to provide an arrangement of chairs and tables roughly circular in pattern, so your guests can see one another easily and converse in normal tones. There should be space for handy small tables.

See that there is room for the usual complement of chairs plus space to add more for additional guests. Three feet of space in front of an easy chair will do unless the person sits with legs stretched out — in which case, better allow five feet. Of course straight-backed chairs will require less space.

Your living room window may be the largest and most dramatic in the house, although the trend toward huge picture windows has leveled off. A lovely view may still make it the perfect window. Mullioned windows, and the bay window, are making a brisk comeback in many areas.

Conversely, if the other side of the living room looks out on patio or terrace, sliding glass panels may be just the ticket. They're found in many homes. One more thing to keep in mind about the living room window, or windows — they may well dictate your arrangement of furniture.

Regardless of the shape or placement of the windows, plenty of natural light should enter the living room. You will want diffused artificial light, and for reading, a good light coming over one shoulder as you sit in your favorite chair.

Louisiana Power & Light Company

"Helping Build Louisiana"

Public Keys Architecture For Houses

The best "architects" a builder has are today's home buyers and prospective buyers.

Their likes, dislikes and needs in housing are subjects of eager interest, and prompt action.

The wise builder knows what people want in a home before he builds. He finds out what style homes are in demand, how many and what kind of rooms, where the rooms should be placed, and what kind of materials and appliances people prefer that can be included in the selling price.

COMMENTS

Comments made at model homes and Parade of Homes, like those being held throughout the nation are carefully noted. Local and national surveys are made. In one the National Association of Home Builders and a magazine sponsored indepth interviews and group discussions with housewives in six major cities from coast to coast.

The NAHB's 40,000 members are applying the results of this survey and other studies to new homes being built right now. By building in the "likes" and eliminating the "dislikes", builders strive continuously to produce better homes of more lasting value.

Of course not every want or whim can be met within the home's contemplated selling price. But if the builder can do it, he will, in today's briskly competitive market.

The vastly increased storage in modern homes is one result of this effort to ascertain the desires of home buyers. Not only has storage been increased, but it has been adapted to more specialized uses. Take the old fashioned pantry, for example. So many housewives wished for its return that the pantry is "new fashioned" now! There are more walk-in closets, too.

The kitchen of 15 or 20 years ago was drably purposeful, about as inviting as a laboratory. The kitchen is still efficient, only more so. It has added comfort and imaginative color, plus new materials to make easier the care of counter tops, cabinets and floors.

SIMILAR CHANGES

The bathroom is undergoing a similar revolution in glamour and efficiency. Compartmented areas allow multiple use of the bathroom. In many, two wash basins allow children to wash two pairs of dirty hands at the same time, without a fuss.

JIM BRADFORD, president of Bradford Built Homes, has had 16 years experience in home building. He is married and lives at 30 Kathy Lane in Monroe. He is a member of Covenant Presbyterian Church, is on the board of directors of the Northeast Louisiana Assocation of Home Builders, and co-owner of Bradford and McConathy Realty.

In addition to market research by the National Association of Home Builders and other industry groups, individual home builders are tailoring studies to their own areas. Many use questionnaires at their model homes; others more elaborate plans.

One builder leans from his own buyers what appealed to them about his homes, subdivision, and price or terms. From buyers of other homes he learns what they disliked about his homes or why they considered the other a better buy. From non - buyers he learns of any demand for different types of homes, different price ranges, different locations, styles, sizes or plans.

TECHNICAL KNOWLEDGE

There is more technical knowledge of older materials — brick, concrete, paint, plaster, shingles, plywood, concrete block — and know better how to use them. Proper use of materials and techniques is supervised more closely today. Industrial efficiency studies have recently been applied to home building, with remarkable savings in construction time and materials.

PRODUCTS

The products that go into a new home continue to be made better. Glass provides clearer vision while shielding eyes from glare. Water heaters are more resistant to corrosion. Furnaces last longer and provide more heat. New surfaces for kitchen counters and table tops make stains and burns almost things of the past.

Trade in Colonial Virginia's "sweet - scented" tobacco grew so profitable that settlers planted it in unpaved streets and market places.

Individuality Achieved In Color, Design

The colors of a house, along with its design, help give it individuality inside and out.

Light colors can make a small house seem larger and more attractive. Deep colors will make a house seem smaller.

Exterior colors should neither clash with the landscape nor, in most cases, blend too completely with it. Green, for instance, is not the best choice for a home built among vivid foliage and greenery.

SHRUBBERY LOCATION

If dark colors are used on the exterior, set shrubbery comfortably away from the foundation to avoid a "closed-in effect. Dark colors more often will be found in colder climates, where they help absorb sunlight.

Bright colors should be used judiciously. They are often too strong for large areas, and are more effective on the exterior as accents. Many people like a colorful door, for example.

The predominate body colors of a home most often are of a restful shade, although stronger accents may be used Southwest. Steer clear of excessive material changes and any uses of material and color that unduly break up the house, giving it a "juke box" effect.

Quiet colors are usually best for the roof. . .colors such as white, beige, gray and brown. A light roof will hlep elevate a house in a low-lying area. However, darker shades would be more practical where smoke or soot is present.

MORE AWARE

Builders are more aware than ever before of color, inside and out, and attend schools and seminars to learn about its uses. In addition, builder members have the resources of the National Association of Home Builders library at their disposal. It contains many reference works on color.

One trend is to repeat exterior color on the inside of the house, helping emphasize the feel of indoor - outdoor living. It is inside the house that color contributes the most grace to a home, and has the greatest effect on its mood and atmosphere.

If you are decorating a new home, don't be afraid to experiment. Don't choose colors just because they are safe and neutral; you must live in the home, and you must please yourself. There are some useful guidelines, however.

CEILING TYPE

A ceiling can be made to appear higher with a light color, and lower with a color darker than the surrounding walls. Light wall colors are nearly always best for a small room, and warm shades for rooms that are apt to get little sun or light.

As on the exterior, use bright colors carefully, so as not to dominate your furnishings. One wall of a different color or light.

As on the exterior, use bright colors carefully, so as not to dominate your furnishings. One wall of a different color or shade, or perhaps wallpapered, is a popular decorating technique.

SHINGLES

Shingles may be absent from the roofs of 1984's new homes. They will be replaced at least to a large degree by roof panels with plastic films and coatings.

sewives Dream Big On Housing

When housewives imagine the new home they would like to own, they dream big, naturally.

This was indicated at seminars on "Housing Design and the American Family," held in six cities under the auspices of the National Association of Home Builders. The seminars were held in Washington, D. C.; Cincinnati, Boston, Portland, Ore.; Los Angeles and Fort Worth. An independent research firm conducted the discussions. The women attending had lived in and owned at least two homes.
